CARTER TRAGEDY PUZZLE

Authorities Investigating N. Y. Mystery Give New Theory to Explain Woman's Death.

SOUGHT TO KILL WHITE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Coroner Dooley is to-day examining a mass of correspondence found in the home of Mrs. Marguerite Carter, who killed herself yesterday in the house of John Jay White, Jr., the retired broker, in hope of finding something that will throw light on the tragedy.

Dooley is sure that Mrs. Carter went to the White mansion to kill the broker, and that the fact he was so ill she could not be admitted to his apartments saved his life.

White is still so ill he has not been informed of the tragedy, and his opinion in the case cannot be secured.

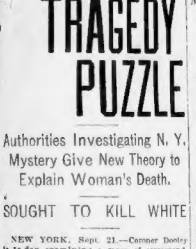

Mrs. White declares Mrs. Carter was a friend of the family and thinks she went to the home simply to offer her services as a nurse for White, who was, she thinks, the family being in the country. She cannot account for the suicide.

Mrs. Carter has been a friend of ours for eight years," says Mrs. White. "My husband was deeply interested in the work she was doing for the prevention of cruelty to animals and with my permission made her a regular allowance for expenses along this line—$200 a month, I think. There was no feeling between them that friendship."

Mrs. Carter was about forty-five years old, although she looked fully ten years younger. She evidently was of French descent, but all that was learned about her was that she married an American in 1904, that she was separated from her husband and that she had told friends he was dead. On one of her fingers was found a wedding ring to which was stamped "Ada to De N., 1904." She also wore a ruby and diamond ring and two gold bracelets. For more than five years she has been a permanent member of the S. P. C. A. and the Ride-A-Wee Society, an organization that cares for homeless dogs and cats. She had two French poodles, but these have disappeared and it is impossible to learn what had become of them.

Two Stories Told.

Mrs. White told detectives of the East Fifty-first street shooting that she had her husband frequently had befriended Mrs. Carter. They met her in charitable circles, and she seemed so interested in her work that they invited her to their home and frequently gave her money. A different version of White's acquaintance with Mrs. Carter was given, however, by Eliza Walters, the maid of the dead woman. She said that White was fond of wine and that whenever he indulged his thirst freely Mrs. Carter took care of him.

White, to whom was left a large fortune by his father, John Jay White, had an office with the firm of Keech Low and Company in No. 7 Wall street. He returned from the country two weeks ago, leaving his wife behind. How often he saw Mrs. Carter since his return from the country is not known, but at 5 P. M. on Thursday she was in his home.

She telephoned to Dr. George V. Foster of No. 105 East Eighteenth street that White was exceedingly ill and asked him to come to the house. When the physician arrived there he found Mrs. Carter caring for the patient. Dr. Foster said she seemed calm and cheerful and did her best to cheer the broker. After the physician left the house he sent word to Cleeland to look after White, and when the masseur arrived there Mrs. Carter was gone.

Cleeland told the police that she returned to the house at 9 p. m. and demanded to see White. She seemed highly excited, and said she had a letter which she wanted to give him.

Became Hysterical.

The nurse told her White could not be disturbed, and he said the woman became hysterical, so that he sent for Doctor Foster. The physician prescribed for Mrs. Carter and the nurse tried to induce her to go to sleep in a room adjoining that of White. She refused for a

WHITNEY AND BARTLETT BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

Managers for Both Candidates Declare They Have Enough Delegates to Insure the Democratic Nomination—Formal Claims Are for Whitney 350 Out of 550, and for Bartlett 300.

Both Henry M. Whitney and General Charles W. Bartlett claim the Democratic nomination for Governor of Massachusetts on the strength of yesterday's caucus results.

D. F. Buckley, Whitney campaign manager, said to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day: "Mr. Whitney will be supported by at least 350 delegates out of the 550 elected yesterday. He will sweep Boston on Tuesday and the joint caucus results will give him a large majority in the convention."

At the Bartlett headquarters this statement was made: "General Bartlett will be nominated. We have gone over the caucus returns carefully and find that he has about 300 out of the delegates already elected. On next Tuesday he will win enough more to retain the lead he now holds. We know the tickets that have been elected. We know who the delegates will vote for in the convention. We have come to Boston with a majority of those elected yesterday. We shall elect all the Boston delegates we need. The result is entirely satisfactory to the Bartlett men."

There are 295 more delegates to be elected in Boston and the other cities and the few towns which will caucus under the Joint act on Tuesday.

Campaign managers have given out no definite lists of delegates claimed as the result of yesterday's primaries. Their statements deal with round numbers only.

Official figures are not yet at hand but as complete and accurate list, it is believed, as has been compiled gives Whitney 190 delegates to date, Bartlett 94 and there are 110 classed as unpledged. Both Bartlett and Whitney men say that most of the unpledged delegates will vote for their candidate.

Bartlett men say that they are positive of gaining the most of the unpledged men, but that Whitney adherents are seeking to buy them.

"SATISFIED," SAY WHITNEYITES.

In his statement to-day in behalf of Whitney, Manager Buckley said:

"We are entirely satisfied. The latest returns show that we have received even a larger number of the delegates elected yesterday than we at first supposed. The returns are overwhelmingly for Mr. Whitney. I have received returns from four more towns this morning and they are sold for Whitney.

"There are several unpledged delegations, but we know where they stand. To a man the unpledged delegations are for Mr. Whitney. The latest figures show that Whitney has at least 350 of the 500 delegates chosen yesterday. In the city caucuses Tuesday we will make an even better showing. We are positive of at least 230 of the 283 delegates to be chosen Tuesday. We are satisfied with the showing last night, but our strength is yet to come."

At the Whitney campaign headquarters there was jubilation. At the Bartlett rooms there was more expression of hope than outward signs of happiness.

One of the caucus surprises was the defeat in Dedham, his home town, of George Fred Williams, who has said he would vote if Whitney is nominated. Williams was beaten by Frederic J. Stimson.

INFURIATED PEASANTS TRY TO KILL TOLSTOI

RIFLE SHOTS FIRED THROUGH WINDOW AT HOME OF GREAT RUSSIAN AUTHOR.

MOSCOW, Russia, Sept. 21.—An attempt was made to-day to assassinate Count Tolstoi. Several rifle shots were fired through a window at his home in the suburb of Tula and it is reported that the great Socialist narrowly missed being killed.

Three arrests have been made, but Count Tolstoi has interfered in the case of one of the prisoners and caused his discharge. The others are held.

Count Tolstoi fell into disfavor with the peasants surrounding his estate recently, and there has been much trouble. Tolstoi was first threatened with death unless his manner toward the peasants changed, and, not heeding these threats, the first attempt was made to assassinate him. It was commonly known that Tolstoi was in the habit of working until very late at night at his writing table near a window on the ground floor of his house. The assassins crept up to this window and fired several shots, either from a repeating rifle or from several rifles. There were several rifle shots in quick succession.

This was the second attack made on the country estate of the author. As in the last attempt, the assassins fired shots from a rifle through a window near which it was known that Count Tolstoi sat at his writing table. Fearing a repetition of the first attempt, which proved fruitless, police were secreted about the estate, and when the second attempt was made the arrests were compassed.

On the second attempt while the police were watching, the assassins did not approach the window so closely, but were probably ambushed in a clump of shrubbery in the grounds and from there fired through the window after taking careful aim.

A low reading lamp cast the shadow of Tolstoi's head on the curtain and the assassins fired at this. That saved the Socialist. The shadow was thrown at an angle and did not indicate the true position of Tolstoi. The countryside is greatly excited over the occurrences and it is feared that still further attempts will be made to kill the Count.

ROGERS, ALL DAY IN BED WON'T TALK OF LOSSES

FAIRHAVEN, Sept. 21.—For the first time since his return to Fairhaven, following his collapse in New York, H. H. Rogers, the oil magnate, kept to his bed practically all day. That his condition had become more grave was evident, despite the emphatic denials of relatives and friends.

Coming down from his bedroom about 8 o'clock last evening, he refused to discuss his reported financial reverses or his most apparent ill-health. Mentally, he seemed to have lost not a whit of his old-time self. When a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter called at the Rogers mansion in the afternoon he was told that the financier was in bed.

Asked for Statement.

When Mr. Rogers came down stairs, a clipping was sent him, containing the statement that he had so invested his fortune in the Tidewater Railway, in Virginia, that he had been compelled to sacrifice vast holdings in Standard Oil, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific and St. Paul.

After a ten minutes wait, Mr. Rogers came to the door, his face flushed, with a slow step, and, clinching the bit of newspaper in his hand, he replied:

"I have not and never shall tell my private affairs to the public."

"But is it true that your investments in the Tidewater have cramped you financially?"

"This Tidewater matter is my own private business, so there is nothing to say."

"And your health, Mr. Rogers? It is no bad that you intend to retire from business?"

Why Such a Fuss?

"Why should there be such a fuss about my health?" interrupted the white-haired financier, almost petulantly. "My health can only interest my family and friends, and they know all about me."

Dr. C. A. Pratt, Mr. Rogers's physician, spent a longer than usual with his patient to-day. When asked if Mr. Rogers had had a turn for the worse the doctor declined to say. He denied, however, that the surrender of his patient to his couch was an ominous sign or was caused by the publication of his alleged Tidewater reverses.

The man simply needs rest," said the doctor emphatically, "and the more he can get the better."

DOROTHY RUSSELL TO GO UNDER KNIFE

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 21.—Dorothy Russell, the actress, daughter of Lillian Russell, is to be operated on at Good Samaritan Hospital to-day. The operation is a minor one and surgeons say will not endanger Miss Russell.

INTERNATIONAL COURT VOTED AT THE HAGUE

THE HAGUE, Sept. 21.—A permanent international court to pass upon all prizes of war is assured through the most important action yet taken by the International Peace Conference.

At to-day's session the resolution creating the court was adopted by a vote of 37 ayes, 2 noes and 6 votes reserved.

Brazil voted against the resolution, while Japan and Russia did not vote.

CURB MARKET BROKERS STOP "KIDNAPPING"

Business Is Suspended While Traders Mix In Family Dispute Over Child.

Business of the curb stock market was broken up at 11:30 o'clock to-day, when the brokers, attracted by the screams of a woman who was attempting to keep a little girl from being taken from her by a man in his shirtsleeves, turned rescuers, attacked the man and forced him to release the child.

Pale and trembling, the young man was hemmed in by a building by a dozen excited brokers and was held until the woman and child escaped.

After the woman and the child had disappeared through Exchange place to Congress street, the fearless man was allowed to go. He went back to Kilby street and entered the store of Charles B. Perkins, a cigar dealer at No. 30, where he is employed there as a clerk.

It was said that his name was Lewis A. Caulfield.

"Family Affair."

A BOSTON AMERICAN reporter asked Mr. Caulfield if he was the man who attempted to take the child. "It's nobody's business that I did," said Mr. Caulfield. "The child belongs to me. It's a family affair anyway."

"Are you separated from your wife?" he was asked.

"Yes, for three or four months."

"Didn't you know where the child was?"

"Yes, I knew where she was. I have seen her. I can see her any time I want to. But it's nobody's business except mine."

Mr. Caulfield was at work in the cigar store when the woman, who is said to be the aunt of the little girl, passed by the window. Immediately Caulfield ran from the store.

Brokers to Rescue.

The woman saw him coming and ran toward Exchange place. As she entered the street where the curb business was in full blast, she screamed. The brokers stopped business and as they saw the struggle going on ran toward the trio.

The child was clinging to the woman when the brokers reached them. There were some angry men in the crowd, and for a few moments Caulfield was roughly handled. Only when he released his hold did the brokers stop the attack.

REBELS STORM CHINESE CITY, DEFEAT TROOPS

HONGKONG, Sept. 21.—Imperial troops have repulsed an attack made on the city of Yo-Chau, on the Yang-Tse-Kiang River, province of Hu-Nan, by 2,000 rebels.

The latter stormed the city and scaled the walls, but, eventually, after some sharp fighting, were driven off.

The disaffection in the Kai-Chow district is spreading, and the inhabitants of the Kwang-Si border are joining the movement to secure redress for the grievances complained of, including the increased taxation and high prices charged for foodstuffs.

GERMAN LINE RATES DROP

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The North German Lloyd announces a reduction of $25 in trans-Atlantic rates. This reduction on eastbound rates is effective at once, while on westbound it is effective after November 1. This is the most radical reduction yet announced.

BIG HARVEST IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Official figures to day show that France will reap big harvests this year. The wheat yield will be 126,377,000 hectolitres, against 114,501,000 last year; rye will yield 20,542,000 against 17,771,000, and maslin, a mixture of wheat and rye, will yield 2,874,000 against 2,399,000 hectolitres.

KELLOGG TO HALE JOHN D.

Six Big Magnates of Oil Trust Next to Be Summoned Before Referee.

HEARING RESUMED MONDAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—John D. Rockefeller and his five great Standard Oil chiefs probably will be summonsed as witnesses in the hearing being conducted before Referee Ferris in New York of the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil of New Jersey filed in the United States Court at St. Louis.

More subpoenas certainly will be issued it was said to-day at the offices of Frank B. Kellogg, counsel for the government. The reply to the question as to who would be summonsed was:

"Those who thus far have not been called are John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, Henry H. Rogers, Henry M. Flagler and Oliver H. Payne."

The government will continue the inquiry Monday into the conduct of the concern's affairs during the period of liquidation which extended through eight years after the order of the Supreme Court of Ohio in 1892 declaring the trust agreement void. The Federal agents believe they will show beyond question that during those eight years the trust was in operation just as before.

Forces Admissions.

The first week of the hearing has been far more productive than could possibly have been hoped for by Kellogg. He has forced the Standard officials to admit for the first time, absolute ownership of the subsidiary company, the systematic parceling out of the country's business, the monopoly of the export oil trade; the ownership by ten men or their estates of a majority of the stock of a great combination which in eight years earned in profits nearly $500,000,000; the methods of making surface changes to satisfy court rulings, when the real system was unchanged; the annual profits of subsidiary companies; the main features in the history of the business since its beginning.

"They have proved nothing yet that we did not give them," said John G. Milburn of the Standard's counsel. This statement was offset by the Federal explanation that each single bit of information "given" by the company was produced in answer to a subpoena calling for it specially. If it had not been produced, the Government could have sent its agents to No. 26 Broadway and obtained it.

Witnesses Hostile.

In spite of the Standard attorney's announcement, that it was policy to tell everything freely, the witnesses thus far have been hostile and have avoided every possible request for information.

Commodore E. C. Benedict, the first witness, who sold out the Manhattan Oil Company, could not even remember to whom he sold it.

Secretary Charles M. Pratt of the Standard, professed an astounding ignorance of the most important affairs and deals of the concern, in which his millions have been invested for twenty-five years and in which his father was a leading factor.

Treasurer Wesley H. Tilford, who has been in the business for nearly forty years, had very little idea what was going on around him, according to his answers, and was afflicted with a poor memory.

Would Part Magnates.

At times, however, he talked "right out" and it was from him that Kellogg got most of his information. It is the Government counsels' desire to get an order dissolving the Standard of New Jersey and at the same time an injunction restraining the defendants, including most of the prominent Standard Oil group of financiers from ever entering any agreement, directly or indirectly, or forming any scheme to control the oil business.

Kellogg's object is to have the subsidiary companies all separated and operated as separate concerns, so that anyone could go into the oil business. To show the value of competition, as well as the trust methods, he has prepared a map of the United States showing oil prices in various States in December, 1904, as a typical time.

In Colorado, where there is no competition, the Standard charged 16.2 cents, while in Ohio, the price was 8.5 cents, in Pennsylvania 8.7 cents and in Connecticut 9.0.

Other States show prices varying between the rates in Colorado and Ohio, according to the amount of competition. The rates were estimated with freight charges substracted so as to give a fair comparison.

$4,000,000 BOND OF STANDARD OIL TOO LOW, SAYS SIMS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—To demonstrate to the court that the $4,000,000 bond fixed in the Standard Oil's supersedeas proceedings is too low, District Atorney Sims will submit evidence to Judge Grosscup that the Oil Trust's Whiting (Ind.) plant is worth $26,000,000.

It is his contention that the company could dispose of the Whiting property and be liable only to the extent of the bond. The District Attorney has selected evidence from testimony at the hearing against the Standard Oil Company now in progress in New York.

HERB HEALER IS FINED $500 BY LYNN JUDGE

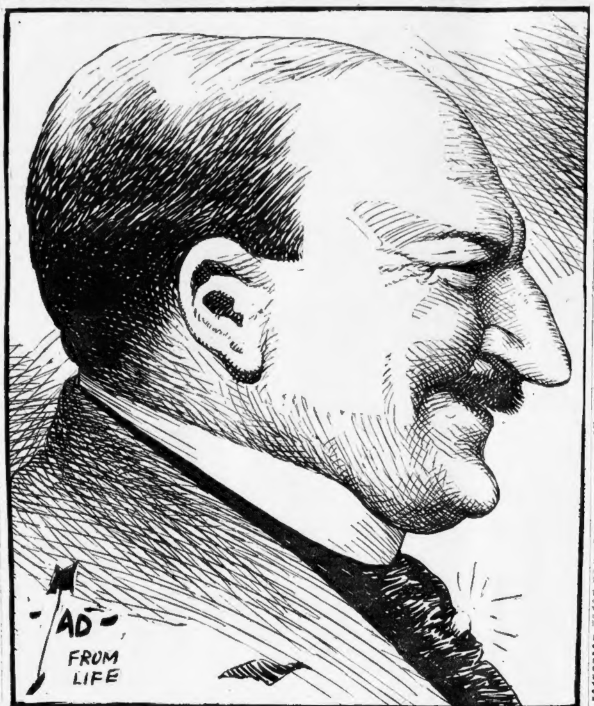

LYNN, Sept. 21.—In imposing a fine of $500 on Dr. J. W. R. Laxton, a "Botanic Healer," who was charged with practicing medicine without being registered as a physician, Judge Lumley said that he had evidently done a land office business, and as his receipts must have been large the fine was made accordingly. Dr. Laxton appealed.

This is the third case which has been brought into court through the efforts of the Lynn Medical Association, who engaged Mrs. Mabel Walker, a detective, to secure the evidence. Two of those summonsed into court were fined $100 each and a third left town and has not been located.

Dr. Laxton keeps a medical laboratory and also has offices at No. 112 Exchange street. He claimed that he was a manufacturer and not a practitioner. Mrs. Walker, however, testified that he told her that she had cerebro spinal meningitis, and said it would cost her $3.50 for the first visit and $2 for every other call.

REAL HEIR OF THE ROCKEFELLERS

William G., nephew of John D., said to be in training by his father and uncle as their business successor. He will be a witness at the Standard Oil hearing in New York. This sketch was made from life by Tad, the famous cartoonist, and illustrates the young Mr. Rockefeller's cheerful disposition, even while the millions of Standard Oil are melting away under the attacks of the insistent Mr. Kellogg.

WOMAN SHOT IN RICH MAN'S HOUSE

long time, he asserted, but about midnight she lay down on a couch, fully dressed.

At 3:45 a. m., Cleeland told the police, she awoke and asked what time it was. The nurse told her and she said: "I guess its about time for me to kill myself." Cleeland said he left Mrs. Carter and when he entered White's room he heard a pistol shot. Returning to the room in which the woman was, he found her with a bullet wound in her head. He summoned Dr. Foster, who pronounced the woman dead.

Some one telephoned to an undertaking establishment for a wagon in which to remove the body from the house, but the driver who was sent telephoned to his employer that it was a case for the Coroner, and Dooley was informed of Mrs. Carter's death. Dooley did all he could to help get the body out of the house as rapidly as possible, certifying the woman had committed suicide after he questioned the nurse.

A Strange Package.

The unusual circumstances of the woman having returned to the house after the nurse arrived and her becoming hysterical because she was not permitted to give White a letter, did not cause the Coroner to inquire further into the case. In the letter which Mrs. Carter carried when she entered the house a $100 bill and a pair of link cuff buttons were found. In her pocket there was a receipt for $700, dated September 19, and signed by Ira G. Safford.

Mrs. Carter lived in a handsomely furnished studio in No. 14 West Twenty-ninth street. She did not mingle with the other dwellers in the house and they knew little about her. She was exceedingly fond of animals, and contributed large sums to the S. P. C. A.

Society Connections.

She also caused to be built in Wall street several years ago, a large water trough for horses. In her charitable work she associated with Mrs. George Gould, Mrs. A. V. T. Billington and Mrs. William Astor Chanler. She was a guest in the home of Mrs. Chanler for two weeks last Summer.

After the death of the woman, Mrs. Carter's apartment was open to any one who cared to enter. Letters were strewn on a desk and there, seemingly, was no one in the place to look after her belongings, except the janitor of the building.

Coroner Dooley did not go to the trouble of visiting the place, nor did the police act until a newspaper man suggested that perhaps the documents in the woman's room might help to clear the mystery surrounding the firing of the bullet into her head. Then a patrolman was sent to lock the apartment and the keys of the place were sent to the Coroner's office.

Late at night Coroner Dooley did not know the place had been locked by the police. He said he had not thought it worth while to go to the place, believing that the woman's relatives would care for her belongings. Efforts were made to induce him to go to the apartment and seize the letters and other documents in it, but he refused to do so.

Coroner Dallies.

"I'll go some time in the morning," he said, "if no relatives appear to claim the belongings."

"Don't you think that in view of the strange circumstances surrounding the woman's death that you ought to act at once?" he was asked.

"Well, twelve hours will not make much difference," he replied.

"What causes are there to hesitate about taking the first precautions to see that nothing which might throw light on the woman's act is taken away?"

"Well, I believe it is a case of suicide and that it isn't necessary for me to act to-night. The fact that White is a wealthy man has nothing to do with my action. The whole thing is that I do not see any reason for haste."

Eliza Waters, who was Mrs. Carter's maid, visited the undertaking place where her former employer's body lay. "I believe she killed herself," the maid said. "Once I found a box of pills labelled 'poison' in her room, and she told me she intended to commit suicide. She had been exceedingly nervous and downcast, and she often said she did not see why she should continue to live. I went to work for Mrs. Carter about five years ago. She knew Mr. White then, and he visited her frequently. She told me she received an allowance of $200 a month from Mr. and Mrs. White, and I know that she frequently looked after Mr. White when he was ill. When she left the house on Thursday night she said she expected a man to call on her and told me to tell him she would not be back."

Dr. Foster, who attended White, said:

Doctors' Story.

"It was Mrs. Carter who telephoned on Thursday afternoon to visit Mr. White. She also told me that she had telegraphed to his wife that her husband was exceedingly ill and to hasten to the city. When I got to the house I found her looking after White. She seemed calm and composed, but when I called a second time in response to a telephone call from the nurse she seemed hysterical.

"The woman called on me about eight years ago. I found her suffering from a nervous trouble, and it was through my acquaintance with her that I became Mr. White's physician."

In the apartment house in which Mrs. Carter lived it was said that about a year ago she and White quarrelled and that they spoke in such loud tones that Miss Edith J. Shearn, an artist, and a sister of Clarence J. Shearn, a lawyer, who had an apartment on the same floor, complained of the noise. It was said also that Mrs. White had visited Mrs. Carter in the apartment.

'TOD' SLOAN TO MARRY ACTRESS IN 'DAIRY MAID'

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—"Tod" Sloan is to be married to-morrow at the Little Church Around the Corner. The bride-elect is Miss Julia Sanderson, now playing with "The Dairy Maid" at the Criterion Theatre. She is about twenty years old and by many persons is considered one of the strikingly beautiful women of the American stage.

The bride-elect is a native of Springfield, Ill. Her family name is said to be Facket. Her father is an actor. She is occupying an apartment at Thirty-fourth street and Eighth avenue with her mother who has accompanied her always since she has been on the stage.

RECORD CLASS ENTERS TUFTS

Registration day records have been broken at Tufts College, the enrolment showing an entering class of 152 students, twenty-five of whom are women. This is an increase of twenty per cent. over last year, which was itself a record breaker.

BURGLARS IN BIG AUTO RAID 22 RESIDENCES

Three Villages Terrified by Thieves; Women Residents Go Armed.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., Sept. 21.—Twenty-two attempts to loot residences in Park Ridge, Woodcliff and Montvale have resulted in the establishing of a remarkable system of mutual protection by the villagers.

The men, not content with arming themselves with revolvers, have supplied pistols to the women. They have purchased shotguns by the score. Burglar alarms have been installed in the home of almost every resident, and an organized force of volunteer police has arranged to have the roads patrolled every night.

To add to the unique situation and strengthen the net which the villagers have constructed to catch the thieves, Albert N. Russell has installed a big siren, the shriek of which can be heard for miles around the countryside. Russell has also formed a posse, which will be ready at any hour of the night to tumble out of bed and pursue the robbers.

Robbers Travel in Big Auto.

A remarkable feature of the situation is that the band of thieves, so far as is known, consists only of two or three men and a woman. They have a big White Steamer touring car, and whiz through the villages at terific speed, defying capture. Four times they have sped through a volley from the revolvers of the residents, but it is believed not one of the three ever was struck. They have ridden so fast that recognition of them has been impossible. The motor car carries no lights.

Only four of the attempts have been successful, and in these cases the marauders have taken only money and jewelry. No acts of violence have occurred except at the home of Mrs. James Leach, where Miss M. D. Kayhatt, a school teacher, was chloroformed and jewelry to the amount of $200 and $50 in money secured from her and $25 from George Leach, the son.

Stole Officer's Handcuffs.

Marshal William Jersey of Montvale had for some days been on a studious outlook for the robbers and had been telling his friend what his faithful shotgun would do when he saw them. He went home late and had only been asleep a few minutes when he was awakened and saw a man fleing from his room. He fired a shot in vain after the fugitive and then discovered that he had been robbed of his watch, $21.90 in money and that his handcuffs had also been stolen.

Sheriff Walter Williams is working day and night in an attempt to get some possible clue to the automobile and its mysterious occupants. He believes that a woman is working with the men, as reports have reached him that she has been seen in the machine. Armed with a double-barrel shotgun, Sheriff Williams is determined that the town shall soon be peacefully slumbering.

Every one in the three villages is indorsing Mr. Russell's horn scheme. It has a screech like the fireboat siren. As soon as it is sounded after dark every one in the village has agreed to respond.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUSES

The news of this defeat of Williams was received with cheers at the Whitney headquarters. Stimson was instructed to vote for Bartlett, however. Stimson's name was put up without his knowledge.

Joy in Headquarters.

It is claimed by his manager that Bartlett has carried the cities of Springfield, Holyoke, Lynn, Brockton, Beverly, Haverhill, Salem, Malden, Marlboro, Medford, Melrose, Woburn.

The Whitney forces get their greatest satisfaction in the returns from Worcester, the home of former Congressman John R. Thayer, which chose a solid delegation for their candidate. Here was where the ante-caucus fight waged the hottest.

Springfield's vote gave the Bartlett men their greatest joy. The city where the convention is to be held gave Bartlett seven pledged delegates and three more unpledged, but believed to be for him, leaving one unpledged for Whitney and two in doubt, and this in spite of Hon. James B. Carroll's advocacy of Whitney as a candidate.

Although Framingham was cut to one delegate by the State Committee owing to the complex vote a year ago the usual five delegates were elected at the largest Democratic caucus for years. The Town Committee has determined to press its claim for five delegates, two of whom are favorable to Bartlett and two for Whitney, with the fifth doubtful, but claimed by both Bartlett and Whitney.

Bartlett Won in Lynn.

Bartlett carried Lynn, capturing eight pledged delegates to Whitney's six, with three unpledged. The contest here was much closer than was anticipated, though the Bartlett men expected a better showing.

In Fall River thirteen of the sixteen delegates are for Whitney, while of the three unpledged delegates Bartlett has a chance of getting one.

New Bedford had the largest caucuses known in Democratic history there, Whitney getting nine of the ten delegates.

Brockton, the home of ex-Governor Douglas, gave Bartlett six of her nine delegates, though they are unpledged. Whitney's three delegates are also unpledged. In Fitchburg, which the Whitney men expected would be solid, two of the five delegates are for Bartlett.

When word came that Leominster had gone for Whitney the Bartlett people could hardly believe it, as the town committee had indorsed the General and all the leading orators of the General's stumping force had been up there and talked on the issues of the campaign.

The result in Greenfield was a surprise and disappointment to the Whitney managers, who lost the two delegates by about ten votes, but the Lawler boys, who had charge of the Whitney campaign in Franklin County, made good almost everywhere except in their own town.

Whitney's Old Home for Him.

Conway, Mr. Whitney's old home, sends a delegate pledged to his nomination.

Milford is a town where the unexpected happened. There the Whitney forces were led by W. D. Leahy, a former secretary of the State Committee. Ex-Town Clerk John T. McLoughlin captained the Bartlett forces and led them to victory.

Ipswich sent George A. Schofield as its delegate to the convention. Mr. Schofield has been one of the Whitney spellbinders and is spoken of as the choice of the Whitney managers for Lieutenant-Governor.

Of Haverhill's eight delegates five are for Bartlett and three for Whitney.

The great surprise in Lynn was the defeat of William P. Connery.

General Bartlett gets one of the Salem delegates. Mr. Whitney obtained the other five.

Melrose Delegation Split.

Melrose has a split delegation. The Bartlett managers claim five of the seven, while the Whitney forces say that they have pledges from four.

There was a hot time in some of the Holyoke wards, but Whitney secured five delegates to Bartlett's two. Four are unpledged.

The Whitney managers claim a clean sweep in Fall River, but returns show 13 Whitney and 3 unpledged.

There yet remain 293 delegates to be elected in the cities and towns using the joint caucus act next Tuesday.

NEW PARTY NEEDED, SAYS G. F. WILLIAMS

George Fred Williams, speaking at a big Boston rally last night, scored Whitney in unsparing style, and declared that the turning over of the Democratic party to the monopoly interests which Whitney represents would demand the formation of a new party organization. Mr. Williams said:

"I have indicated in this campaign my belief that Mr. Whitney's campaign is a cover for another great speculation which will involve all New England in a railroad monopoly such as has not been permitted in any other section of the country.

"I must confess that if periodically our party can be bought by, and delivered to, the corporate interests which are seeking to extort from the people, it is about time that we understood it and either purged our party of the traitors who make such conditions possible, or formed a new organization to represent the popular interests.

"I believe it is the existence of this traiterous element in our party which keeps tens of thousands of Republicans from joining us and creating a permanent majority; nor can radical Republicans be blamed for clinging to their own party if the opposition merely invites them into an organization having no more loyalty to the people's rights.

"I have been obliged in this campaign to attack the personal record of Mr. Whitney in public affairs, and I greatly regret the necessity which has forced me into a personal attack, but Mr. Whitney has made no apology for his record of legislative corruption and apparently expects the Democrats of this State to vindicate his moral standards in politics.

A Corporation Tool.

"He comes as the representative of corporate interests with another scheme of profit-making monopoly in which he does not deny he has a personal interest. There is not the remotest doubt that except for his candidacy the Democratic party would stand united against the merger of the Boston & Maine railroad. Therefore, Mr. Whitney is not only seeking a personal vindication but is demanding an absolute reversal of the attitude of our party with respect to public monopolies. I do not believe that the Democracy of this State will gratify his desires in either respect.

"If I have been obliged to attack his record, he has forced it upon me by his insistence upon a nomination. I do not deny him the right, which he has exercised, of attacking me bitterly in return, and if he is able to discredit me with the Democrats of this State by any truth in his statements he is entitled so to do; but I do not wish to be misrepresented.

"My personal attitude towards other leaders of the Democracy cannot be an issue in this campaign, for I am not a candidate, but as he has asserted that in a national convention I insulted Governor Russell and helped to bring him to an untimely end, I wish to denounce this statement as untrue in every detail.

"I made no attack upon Governor Russell in the convention of 1896 where, for the first time, we disagreed upon a party policy. So far as my personal relations with him were concerned, while we had differed in that campaign, they were not affected by insults on either side.

"I wish to say, however, that I have a right to go back of the campaign of 1896 when Governor Russell and I differed, and to say that Mr. Whitney is the last man who should take the name of William E. Russell for his own vindication.

"When in the year 1890 Mr. Whitney's corruption in the Legislature was a political issue, Governor Russell opened his campaign in my legislative district for the express purpose of emphasizing his protest against the corrupt methods of Mr. Whitney. In that campaign he denounced Governor Brackett for signing the West End bill, and declared that if he had been Governor he would have vetoed it as quickly as he could put pen to paper. He said he held it far more important to guard the purity of legislation and to rebuke the lobby than that any measure of merit should be hastened in its passage. He declared that it was the highest duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth to protect its fair fame from legislative scandal and to protect the people from the improper control of legislation by secret influences."

WHITNEY DEFENDS HIMSELF; STAFF ATTACKS BARTLETT

In automobiles, Henry M. Whitney and his campaign staff invaded Ward 20 last night, welcomed by red fire on Meeting House Hill, and were greeted by an audience of about 400 in the wardroom.

Speaking in his own defence, the candidate claimed that he was the friend of both capital and labor in the stand that he took during the war over the consolidation of the West End Street Railway in 1900.

He admitted that he spent money during the fight to bring about the consolidation, and that he gave dinners to the legislators, but declared he did so that they might learn the importance of the question, believing that they would vote for it, if they were familiar with all sides.

He declared that he never spent a dollar illegally in either the street railway fight or the gas fight.

Paying his respects to George Fred Williams, he declared that a more corrupt man politically than the Dedham man had never appeared in public life.

He voiced confidence in his own nomination and election.

Congressman John A. Sullivan pointed out the advantages of having a business man like Whitney as the candidate. He rapped Bartlett for "sulking in his tent" two years ago, until the expenses of the campaign were guaranteed, and sarcastically scored George Fred Williams.

Congressman John A. Keliher defended Whitney from the attacks of the Bartlett speakers and savagely scored General Bartlett and George Fred Williams, characterizing the latter as a "party assassin."

Former Congressman McNary handled his successor, Congressman O'Connell, in fiery fashion, saying that he had never before known in political life such self-debasement as the Congressman had manifested in his home appeal for votes in Bartlett's interests. He charged that Mr. O'Connell's political record is as spotted as is the skin of a leopard.

MOTHER SAYS BLOW CAUSED BOY'S DEATH

Blames Companion for Death of Little Charley Holloway, of Eastern Ave., Malden.

The death of little six-year-old Charles H. M. Holloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus M. Holloway of No. 570 Eastern avenue, Malden, of lock-jaw, the funeral of whom is being held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from his home, is blamed by the child's mother upon a seventeen-year-old Malden boy whom she says chased and struck her son last Monday. On the other hand the Malden police take no stock in this, but one of the highest officers in the Malden force says that young Holloway's death was due to vaccination and blood poison.

The last services over the remains of the little fellow who died on Wednesday morning are being held this afternoon and interment is to take place to-morrow in the family lot at Taunton Cemetery.

"I know who is responsible for Charley's death," said Mrs. Holloway to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "It is a seventeen-year-old boy of Malden, whose name I will give at the proper time. He was playing last Monday morning in our yard with my little boy and several others of their little friends. They were snapping each other with elastics. In the play this boy's jacket was torn, and he blamed Charley.

"He chased my son all around the lot and finally struck him. Charley came into the house and did not complain very much about the hurt at the time, although he cried for a short time. He dressed and went to school and that was all that was thought about it then.

"Tuesday he had to leave school and Tuesday night his back grew so bad that we called Dr. F. D. Randall of Malden. The doctor at once said my boy must die. That he had tetanus, or lockjaw. I told him about the big boy's hitting Charley. I attribute his deth which followed Wednesday morning to that."

The Malden police say that there will be no arrests. That the lad's lockjaw was probably due to his vaccination on Sept. 7.

CIGARETTE CRUSADE WAGED IN CHELSEA

On account of the complaints of Chelsea parents that their boys were buying and smoking cigarettes, the police have had men at work looking for violators of the cigarette law. To-day they had Max Alperositch, proprietor of a variety store at No. 168 Arlington street, in Chelsea Police Court, charged with selling a package of cigarettes to a ten-year-old boy. He pleaded not guilty, was held in $100 bail, and the case was continued to September 28.

BIDS HIGH FOR HUB STRIKING TELEGRAPHERS

Postal Offers Positions in West Where They Can Make $300 Monthly.

NEEDS EXPERT OPERATORS

That at least one of the big telegraph companies is not so well supplied with operators as it wishes it were, and that it is so dissatisfied with the strike situation that it is prepared to pay fabulous salaries to get men to work the keys in the West, is disclosed by letters received by Boston striking operators.

These missives from Superintendent E. Pillsbury of the Postal Telegraph Company show that the company needs operators and needs them badly. The company offers big salaries and easy positions, with travelling expenses to and from the point of destination, with a choice position as soon as normal conditions prevail, especially along the California coast.

The letters were in Mr. Pillsbury's handwriting. The operators each received a personal leter from the superintendent on Thursday, requesting them to call upon him at his office, No. 84 State street on a personal matter and as soon as possible. Two of them called up Mr. Pillsbury on the telephone.

Big Pay; Exenses Paid.

They claim Mr. Pillsbury offered to place them in San Francisco and guaranteed them $200 a month. With the extra time allowed, it was possible to make $300 a month. The conditions were that they should go there during the present trouble and stay there until normal conditions prevailed.

They were to have all traveling expenses paid, with extra pay while they were on the road and a choice, when the situation righted itself, of returning to whatever city they chose to select as a permanent position.

Mr. Pillsbury when interviewed in regard to these letters said:

"Yes, it is true that I sent letters to five operators in Boson, who are now on strike.

Company Needs Men.

"They do need men on the Pacific coast and I have been asked to pick out five expert operators to fill as many positions. The five men to whom I wrote letters are the ones I chose for the positions. I guaranteed them $99 a month, not $200.

"Yes, it is possible for them to make $300 a month. Under certain conditions they could do the same thing in Boston.

Mr. Pillsbury would not admit that the Postal Telegraph Company is having a hard time to get men.

"All the positions that are vacant and those that demand expert men to fill them, so far as I know, are the five of which I have spoken," said the superintendent.

Beautiful Society Girl Fills Role of Dairymaid on Big Vanderbilt Farm

Miss Pauline LeRoy French, who is soon to marry Samuel Wagstaff

Alfred Vanderbilt's farm, and sketch showing how Miss French is playing dairymaid.

Pauline Le Roy French, Soon to Be a Bride, Milks Cows Twice Daily.

NEWPORT, Sept. 21.—"The Dairymaid Bride" is the title society has bestowed upon Miss Pauline LeRoy French. She isn't a bride—yet. But she soon will be, and to pass the time away before the day upon which Samuel Wagstaff leads her to the altar, she is playing milkmaid on the Alfred Vanderbilt farm.

Miss French rises with the sun each morning, and, donning a flaring bonnet and a dainty apron, takes a shiny big pan on her arm, goes from one to another of the blooded Guernseys and Alderneys, and, unassisted, milks. When she calls the "bossies" in from the pasture in the evening she repeats the performance.

It is said the Vanderbilt table has never enjoyed such delicious cream. Mr. Wagstaff says he certainly never has. He is always an interested spectator at the milking.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is Miss French's "Aunt Elsie," and she and Mr. Vanderbilt are making the ante-nuptial period of the young people very happy. When Miss French is not engaged in agricultural pursuits, she and her fiance ride about the farm, race around the training ring, or motor through the surrounding country.

MORAN DEFIED IN THREATENED PROBE OF MILK

Producers Declare He Butted In Where He Has No Right.

PLACE BLAME FOR RAISE

The milk producers have apparently taken the cow by the horns and openly defy District Attorney Moran to carry on his threatened probe into the proposed raise in the price of milk, for according to one of the leaders of the union, Mr. Moran has butted in where he has no right.

Vice President Bemis declares the farmers will never give in. He scouts the idea of a compromise and says that 40 cents a can is their price and they must have it or no milk.

It is also universally stated among the producers that while they are forced to raise the price they can see no reason why the public should be charged any more.

"The contractors are already making an enormous profit and can well afford to pay us our price without raising the price on the public," is the way one of the leading farmers put it.

There is talk of holding a monster mass meeting in Faneuil Hall by the milk producers and of exposing the methods of the contractors. "We want to be put right and we don't want the consumers to misunderstand us in this proceeding," declared Vice-President Bemis of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' Union.

That the attitude of Mr. Bemis is the same as that of the other producers is shown in the statements of several of the members of the union.

"The Milk Trust wants everything," said John B. Marcou of Princeton. "We are producing milk at a loss, and the trust wants to make 100 per cent. profit. It's about time we got our due."

C. D. Sage of North Brookfield also speaks in the same tenor, and all are agreed that it is the sentiment of all the farmers without exception.

The farmers of Worcester County held a mass meeting in Horticultural Hall at Worcester under the auspices of the Worcester Milk Producers' Union, and they voted to stand out firm for forty cents a can, an increase of ten cents over the present price.

Messrs. Hood, Whiting and other wholesale milk dealers said that there was no change in the situation. They had heard that independent dealers had resolved to increase the price of milk, but their concerns had made no change in their prices, they said.

The representatives of the farmers deny that there is any signs of weakening in their ranks, and contradict also the charge made by Adolf Graustein, treasurer of the Boston Dairy Company, that only a "few soreheads" are sticking out for a ten-cent increase.

Complaints have been made in various localities that unscrupulous and enterprising milk dealers have taken advantage of the present agitation between the contractors and producers and increased the reall price of milk a cent a quart on their own responsibility.

Mrs. Mae Brady Hall of Newport To Crown Romance with Divorce

Mrs. Mae Brady Hall, Newport Society Beauty, Whose Divorce Follows Romance.

Beauty, Said to Have Charmed Youthful Harriman, Asks Freedom.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Mae Brady Hall, a society favorite and beautiful Summer resident of Newport, has begun proceedings for divorce from her husband, Major Charles Hall of the British army, with whom she fell in love in an elevator in a London hotel four years ago and with whom she lived only a few months.

Mrs. Hall came here to live nearly two years ago, soon after she had separated from her husband, and her friends seemed to understand that she would sue for divorce as soon as she gained a residence. Mrs. Hall declined to discuss the matter, however, and to many she denied the report. Recently her petition was filed here, and now that service has been made upon the respondent objection to the matter becoming public appears to have been removed. The case will be placed on the docket for the December term of the Superior Court, and if the petition is favorably acted upon Mrs. Hall will obtain her decree six months later.

Tall and stately, Mrs. Hall has long been considered one of the most attractive women in society. She was a daughter of Judge Brady of New York, and she and her sister, Mrs. Katherine Harris, two of the prettiest girls of their time, were very popular. May Brady first married C. Albert Stevens, a young man of large means, and he died about six years ago. A few months later she met Major Hall, a dashing British army officer, and their marriage followed soon after in London. They spent the season of 1903 there, but their differences soon became apparent to their friends and they separated in the Autumn. Two years ago Mrs. Hall purchased a villa on Clay street, here, and she has since made her residence in Newport. Here she is one of the leaders in social matters and her dinner companies are frequent and delightful.

She charges her husband with desertion and failure to provide for her. It is understood that he will not answer the allegations.

The announcement of the filing of the suit comes within a few weeks of the announcement of Herbert Harriman and Miss Elizabeth Shirley's engagement in England.

Mr. Harriman and his wife were legally parted a year ago and the gossip then was that Mrs. Hall would obtain a divorce and Mr. Harriman and Mrs. Hall would marry. The papers for divorce allege non-support and desertion and will be tried in December.

LUSITANIA ON RETURN TRIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—At the height of the flood-tide the big Cunarder Lusitania essays the outward passage of the new Ambrose channel this afternoon on her first eastward trip. Until she is clear of the Hook, officials of the line and the engineers who constructed the new short cut from the ocean to the upper bay will not breathe very freely. The channel ranges from thirty-five to forty feet deep, and the liner, with stores and passengers aboard, scales exactly thirty-four feet three inches draught.

Pilot George Young, who takes her out, declares that he will not have less than thirty-six feet under her keel.

AGED PASTOR SAVES A GIRL FROM SUITOR

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A thrilling story of how a frantic suitor, armed with a revolver, forced Miss Belle Crouse of Stanhope, N. J., to go with him from Ocean Grove to Asbury Park to be married, under threat of murder, has been revealed by the girl's father, Rev. N. P. Crouse, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. The heroism of a brother clergyman in the middle of the marriage ceremony saved the minister's daughter from harm. The man in the case, who was driven almost to insanity through his love for the beautiful twenty-one-year-old girl, is Percy C. Bissell of Stanhope.

Bissell arrived at Ocean Grove Thursday morning. It was only a few hours later when he saw the woman he had sworn to make his wife, walked up to her brusquely, and said:

"You've got to marry me, or I'll kill you."

Miss Crouse did not scream, for Bissell quickly warned her not to do so if she valued her life, at the same time pulling out a revolver.

The girl, sharp of mind, saw death would result on refusal and complied. Bissell calmly called a closed carriage, and the pair were driven to Asbury Park, to the home of Rev. Charles N. Griffin.

Suddenly, just before the clergyman was half through the solemn function, the girl broke down and wept. Bissell looked on calmly. The minister thought Miss Crouse had collapsed under the excitement incident to becoming a bride, but in a few hurried, half coherent words, she blurted out the story.

Bissell turned white with rage. But another surprise was coming for him. The aged minister, with the agility of a boy, sprang upon the man and fought with him all around the room, saying:

"Give me that revolver, young man. Would you commit murder?"

COBB PRAISED BY THE W. C. T. U.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 21.—At their annual convention, the Women's Christian Tempeance Union of Maine, drew up resolutions pledging their influence for the election of legislators favorable to the prohibitory law and indorsing Governor Cobb as follows:

"Resolved, That we declare our intention to use our utmost influence for the nomination and election of such legislators as are known to be in the fullest sympathy with the prohibitory law and pledged to its enforcement.

"Resolved, That we extend to Governor Cobb an expression of our heartfelt appreciation of his firm position for the enforcement of the prohibitory law.

RIOTING MINERS DRIVE 57 JAPS FROM CANADA

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 21.—Fifty-seven Japanese coolies were rounded up and driven from the Atlin district last night by two hundred white miners. Atlin is in British Columbia, and the drastic measures employed by the miners have greatly surprised the authorities.

According to the meagre telgraphic details of the affair the Japanese were driven aboard the steamer Gleaner, whose officers were told that they had to ship the Japanese out of the country at once. The demands were complied with, and the Japanese are expected to reach Skagway from White Horse, where they were conveyed by steamer last night.

Once before the white miners drove the Japanese out of the Atlin district.

A. E. Fowler, secretary of the Seattle Anti-Asiatic Association, has been arrested at Bellingham, charged with insanity. Fowler took part in the anti-Japanese riots at Vancouver, B. C., a week or so ago, and many claim that he incited them.

Second 'Soul Bride' Comes to Light in Hirsch 'Affinity' Romance

Deserted Wife Tells of Strange Blonde Who Now Figures in the Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The affinity fever has a strangle hold on Patrick Henry Hirsch, according to his deserted wife, and the astonishing details she has given to the police promise nothing but trouble for Miss Yeargain, his "soul bride," who was ar-

Couple Disappear and May Forfeit Bail Before Facing Prison Term.

I should have him at once as an evidence of his desire to reform. When he came to me he brought with him a very rested with him at the fashionable Warwick Arms, the first victims of the new law regarding affinities.

According to Mrs. Hirsch, Miss Yeargain is only affinity No. 1, and her statements have come as a severe shock to both the girl and her mother, who declared that her daughter was Hirsch's affinity.

Mrs. Hirsch declared that not only had Hirsch been begging her to return to him and promising to put Mrs. Yeargain out of the apartments, but that she had discovered a second affinity about whom Miss Yeargain had not yet learned.

Couple Have Disappeared.

The pair have disappeared, but are under bail to appear in court to-day, and the detectives believe they will forfeit this bail rather than risk $500 fine and six months' imprisonment under the new law.

It is because of the remarkable attitude of Miss Yeargain's mother after Mrs. Hirsch had caused the arrest of the pair and had told how they had kept her little boy from her, taught him to call Miss Yeargain "mother," that the case is one of the strangest ever brought into a New York police court. It is even more astonishing than the Earle case.

"It is a crime to arrest my daughter and Mr. Hirsch," said the mother of the girl. "I have consented to live here with them because I know they love one another deeply. Mr. Hirsch loves my daughter, and he does not love his wife.

"I have understood all along that my daughter was not married to Mr. Hirsch, but I could pardon the conditions because their two souls were one. They loved each other dearly, and it is not right to interfere with such love."

After the arrest of her husband and Miss Yeargain, Mrs. Hirsch was found in her apartments in the Hotel Endicott, only a block away from the Warwick Arms, and she was on the verge of hysterics over the notoriety that had come to her.

"I would never have done this except for my little boy," she sobbed. "They kept him away from me so long and taught him to call that woman 'mother,' I simply had to act.

Blonde Affinity Discovered.

"Last December, while I was in this city discussing with Mr. Hirsch the possibility of a reconciliation, he took our little boy out. When they came back the lad told me that his father had taken him for a ride around the block, where he met a tall blonde woman in the corridor of the Knickerbocker Hotel. Miss Yeargain will remember that she is a brunette, and I am a blonde, and I was not the blonde who was at the Knickerbocker.

"The Spring following his Toledo work, my husband went to Chicago, where he first met Miss Yeargain. She was working in a department store there and her mother, who was a well bred woman, was a shirt waist worker.

"My detectives inform me that Miss Yeargain's accomplishments are so limited that she does not even write a letter well, and that is why I cannot understand such a clever man as Mr. Hirsch beginning the relations that seem to have started almost immediately.

"Last April Mr. Hirsch finally brought the lad down to me, saying he was willing beautiful young blonde woman, beautifully dressed and wonderfully bediamoned. This young woman, he explained, was the lad's governess, and since I would probably like to engage my own governess, he said, he would take the blonde, who was a poor orphan, back to New York.

Beautiful Orphan as Governess.

"The subsequent investigations by my detectives, I am informed, revealed the fact that this young woman was a manicurist in one of the best known hotels in New York.

"My detectives informed me that, prior to taking up their apartments in the Warwick Arms, Miss Yeargain and my husband lived at the Walton and at the Hotel Astor, and that they were put out of the latter place.

"Some months ago, while Mrs. Yeargain was living as Mrs. Hirsch in one of the hotels, some of her jewelry was stolen by a hotel employe. She caused the arrest of this person and went to court, where, posing as Mrs. Hirsch again, she pressed the complaint. I want to state emphatically that I never figured in any such incident, although the newspapers at the time pubulshed stories of how Mrs. P. H. Hirsch had been robbed."

When Hirsch was bailed out he stated that Mrs. Hirsch, some time ago, began a divorce suit against him. He declared an absolute decree had been granted several weeks ago, and that it is to be signed within thirty days. After leaving court he disappeared completely.

FIRE IN MARKET DISTRICT HALTS BUSY TRAFFIC

Great excitement was caused in the market district to-day, the busiest of the week, by a fire in the three-story brick building at Nos. 190 and 192 Commercial street. The cause of the blaze, which started on the second floor, is unknown. The flames ate their way upward through the roof, and firemen had to flood the building.

The two upper floors are occupied by the Metropolitan Mattress Company and the first floor by F. N. Doyle, liquor dealer. Workmen in the mattress factory fled when the fire was discovered, and a dense bank of smoke hid the upper stories for a time.

The building runs back to Fulton street, which was crowded with market teams, and when the fire apparatus arrived the thoroughfare was blocked. The firemen practically put the fire out in thirty minutes.

STARTS FREE SCHOOL FOR TELEGRAPHERS

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 21.—A free school of telegraphy has been established in Springfield by the Boston & Albany Railroad. The company has fitted up a large room in its office building. It is stated that the move has no bearing on the telegraphers' strike, and is intended to provide operators to meet the shortage of telegraphers which is expected to follow when the law passed by Congress limiting the hours of railway telegraphers to nine hours a day goes into effect.

TRUSTEES ASK COURT ADVICE ON EDDY FUND

Answer Also Filed to Suit Brought by Son of Christian Science Leader.

SAY GLOVER BALKS PLANS

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 21.—General Frank S. Streeter, Irving C. Tomlinson of this city and Archibald McLellan of Boston, trustees of a fund of $125,000 created in February by Mary Baker Eddy in behalf of her son George W. Glover and grandchildren have filed an answer in the Superior Court to a bill of equity filed July 8 by Mrs. Baker's son and her grandchildren, asking the Court to dismiss the trustees and take possession of the fund in behalf of the beneficiaries.

In their bill the plaintiffs alleged that the fund was created at a time when the trustees knew that a bill in equity was to be brought and that the purpose of the fund was to prevent the filing of he bill for the purpose of securing an accounting of Mrs. Eddy's property and an investigation as to her competency.

Trustees Deny Allegations.

The trustees in their answer deny all the allegations and set up the claim that according to the terms of the $125,000 trust fund, George W. Glover and his daughter, Mary Baker Glover, are shut out from the list of beneficiaries, inasmuch as they violated a condition of the trust, which provided that none of the beneficiaries should question Mrs. Eddy's course in handling her property while she was alive or contest her will.

The answer further states that an effort has already been made to bestow the benefits of the trust upon such beneficiaries as have unquestioned rights, but that George W. Glover, assuming to act in their behalf, has prevented the trustees from carrying out their lawful duties in administering the trust committed to them.

Instructions Asked of Court.

The trustees also ask the court for instruction regarding the following.

Whether George W. Glover and Mary Baker Glover are entitled to receive any annual payments out of the estate.

Whether Mary Baker Glover is entitled to share in the distribution of the estate at the termination of the trust.

Whether one or more of the persons named as beneficiaries under trust deed are in law and fact entitled to share in its benefits.

What are our duties in respect to the beneficiaries whose right is unquestioned and how should these duties be discharged?

What disposition shall be made by us of the accumulated income in our hands?

CROKER NOW HAS MONOCLE

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Richard Croker wears a monocle.

Those who spread the rumor insist that Mr. Croker can keep the monocle in his eye without the slightest difficulty, and that he uses it when playing cards after dinner.

Mr. Croker is staying at a country house at Barnby Moor during the great Yorkshire race meeting.

The most aristocratic men on the English turf think it worth while to cultivate Mr. Croker now that he owns a Derby winner. At the Doncaster races Lord Rothschild, one of the most reserved of men, had two long chats with Mr. Croker.

Here Is Tad's "Affinity" Bug, Soul Sister of Love Microbe

New York, noted for its waves—crime waves, love microbe waves and others—is now firmly in the grip of a new one—the affinity wave. This latest fad, started by Artist Ferdinand P. Earle, has inspired Cartoonist Tad with the idea that there must be an affinity bug, as there was a love bug in the case of Rector Cooke, of Hempstead, who eloped with Floretta Whaley. Tad thinks the affinity bug must be a "soul sister" of the love microbe. Tad's affinity bug is in the upper left hand corner of the picture. To the right is a reproduction of T. E. Powers's famous love bug. There does seem to be a resemblance.

DOCTOR SAYS CLEVELAND IS SERIOUSLY ILL

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 21.—Ex-President Cleveland took a short drive, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland, returning in less than fifteen minutes after leaving his home. He refused to answer questions regarding his state of health.

"He is suffering from gout, but that is all, and there is nothing alarming in his condition," Mrs. Cleveland said.

Dr. J. M. Carnochan, the attending physician, was not so sanguine. "Mr. Cleveland suffers from acute indigestion and stomach trouble," he said. "He is so seriously ill that any deviation from his prescribed diet might cause very grave complications."

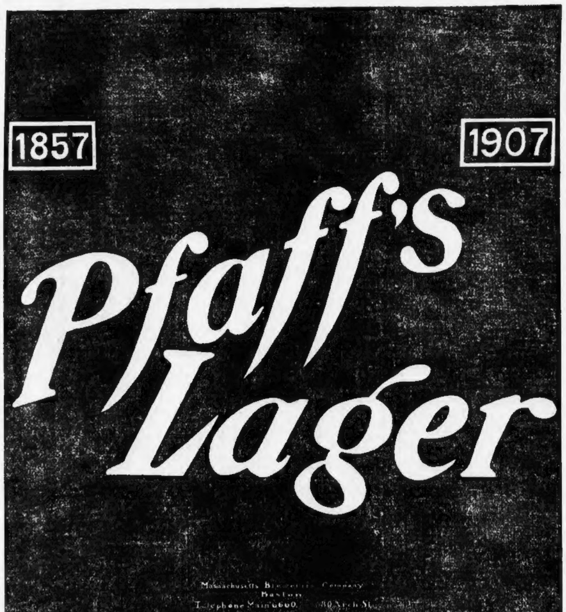

The nurse who is attending Mr. Cleveland said to-day that his condition remains unchanged. He spends much of his time in bed.

QUELL RIOT OF ANARCHISTS IN FANEUIL HALL

A dozen anarchists, wearing the red badge of their order, nearly caused a riot in Faneuil Hall last night because they resented sentiments expressed by Frank Zottoli, a Boston attorney, who was addressing the Italians of Boston on the celebration of the restoration of Rome as the national capital of Italy.

Hardly had the meeting begun when several of the "reds" entered the hall. Another band, coming from Lynn, gathered on the stairway leading to the hall, and arguments ensued between the two parties. Soon blows were struck, and a general mixup seemed probable, but the appearance of a police officer quelled this disturbance.

The meeting was not disturbed till Mr. Zottoli, as chairman of the evening, rose, and uttered words distasteful to the Anarchists. He was hissed and hooted by the band of "reds." It was not until Mr. Zottoli assured them that this was not a celebration of one person, but of all Italy, that the disturbers left the hall.

40 FAMILIES IN PANIC AT CRY OF FIRE

Forty families containing nearly 150 children were thrown into a panic to-day by the cry of "Fire" in the big brick tenement block at No. 28 Fleet street, North End. There was a mad rush for the street, mothers grabbing their babies and half falling down the dark, narrow stairs with them. There were about 200 people in the block at the time, most of them Italians.

The fire itself did not amount to anything. It was in the tenement of P. Marcello on the third floor, and was caused by the upsetting of a pan of tomato ketchup which was simmering on the stove. The ketchup blazed up, and for a few seconds it looked as though there would be a good sized conflagration. Mrs. Marcello grabbed her infant and rushed through the halls shouting "Fire!" and the other occupants hurried to the street. Her husband stayed in the kitchen and put the fire out by throwing pails of water on it. It was extinguished when the fire apparatus arrived.

WOMAN'S BODY IN THE CHARLES

With indications of suicide, the body of a mulatto woman, supposed to be Ella V. Johnson of Harrisburg, Pa., was found to-day at low tide on the Charles River flats in front of Riverbank Court, Cambridge, near Harvard Bridge.

On the sea wall nearby was found a pocketbook containing eighty cents and insurance papers made out in the Johnson woman's name. Captain Murray of Station 2 believes it is a case of suicide. The body was removed to Litchfield's undertaking rooms. The woman was well dressed in a black silk dress, black stockings, lace shoes, and wore a gold signet ring.

SILLY WOMEN RAVE AT TRIAL OVER SLAYER

Frank J. Constantine Who Faces Gallows for Killing Louise Gentry, Is Lionized.

"TOO HANDSOME TO DIE"

By Frances Savage.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Women have made fools of themselves before in attending murder trials. I'm sorry I have to write it.

And still sorrier am I to write that I believe history is about to repeat itself.

I've been to the Constantine trial.

The curiosity shown by the women seekers of sensation who haunt the courtroom as I found it to-day was—well, I started to say surprising, but that is too weak a word.

It was more. It was SHOCKING.

Frank Considine, who is accused of the revolting murder of Louise Gentry, is a Beau Brummel in his class. That much I shall admit.

Women Call Him Handsome.

But the women of the class who frequent murder trials in the hope of hearing something that will shock them unspeakably find an additional magnet that draws them to Judge Kavanagh's court. They consider Constantine handsome.

Two of this type were in evidence today and throughout the serious proceeding they chatted audibly about the prisoner, his "handsome face" and his immaculate dress.

"Would you think," said the blonde to the brunette, "that he could do such a thing! Look at his beautiful eyes. They don't look to me like the eyes of a murderer, do they to you?"

"Oh, I don't know about that," said the brunette in reply. "They look sort of wicked to me. See how they flash! Anyhow, I would not like to meet him on a dark night. He gives me the shivers."

"Don't you think he is handsome?" asked the blond again.

"Yes, he is handsome. That is a fact, but he looks wicked to me," and the brunette gave a little shiver of fear.

And Silly Talk Flows On.

"But just look at his hair. I think that is about the prettiest hair I ever saw, and did you ever see such a white neck?"

And so it went. There was not an article of Constantine's clothing that did not undergo inspection. For the half hour these women were in the courtroom they never stopped their silly talk about Constantine's beauty, Constantine's look of resignation.

And if there is one look that Constantine has not employed up to now it is the look of resignation.

One of the women vowed that she could fall in love with a man like that and that he would never be hanged—that he was too good looking.

One Question Answered

And yet the question has been asked why women are not allowed to serve as jurors.

These were good looking and well dressed women, probably wives and mothers, yet the rather daring and altogether vulgar good looks of a man on trial for his life for murder sets them sighing and making themselves ridiculous in the eyes of the entire courtroom.

As they were leaving the room I caught remarks to the effect that some flowers would be sent to Constantine, with the message that there were two women that wanted to see him liberated and that he must be of good cheer.

Wife Defies Big Storm of Bills Under Diamond Studded Parasol

Rich Mrs. Thomas, Sued by Worth, Declares Jewelled Sunshade a Necessity of Life.

Mrs. Herbert Franklin Thomas, formerly a show girl, whose husband refuses to pay a bill contracted by her with Worth on the ground that many of the articles are not "necessaries."

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Poor John! How would you like to be in Justice John Ford's place to-day? Here are a few of the things he must decide:

Is a $200 diamond studded parasol a necessity in an ex-chorus girl's life?

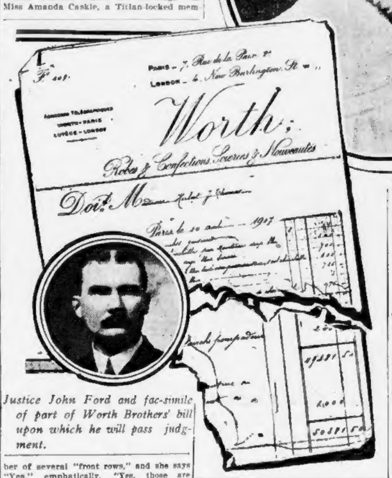

Is it really out of the question for her to struggle along without a chinchilla collar decorated with lace to the tune of $2,000?

Is it absurd for her to attempt existence minus an "ancient Venetian relief"—whatever that is—valued at $1,500 or a set of four buttons valued at $9 to the button?

These are a few of the questions brought out in the suit against Mrs. Herbert Franklin Thomas, wife of the well known broker and financial director, to recover payment of the articles named and of $10,000 worth of furs, lingerie and miscellaneous frockery that Mrs. Thomas bought a year ago from the noted Parisian house of Worth.

Former Footlight Favorite.

Mrs. Thomas before her marriage was Miss Amanda Caskie, a Titian-locked member of several "front rows," and she says "Yes," emphatically. "Yes, those are necessaries, and I couldn't get along without them."

Justice John Ford and fac-simile of part of Worth Brothers' bill upon which he will pass judgment.

"No!" replies Mr. Thomas, with equal emphasis. "They are not necessaries, and I therefore refuse to pay for them."

Mr. Thomas is a son of Orlando F. Thomas, president of the Wall street firm of Thomas, Maclay & Co., and director in a score of corporations.

The Worth firm hasn't been paid yet, though bills have been sent impartially to both husband and wife for months. So, through Attorney Alfred W. Varian, of No. 44 Pine street, suit has been brought against the Thomases. They, through Attorney Clarence J. Shearn, have made answer.

Husband Dodges Payment.

Mr. Thomas, who was sued first, took refuge in the law which declares a husband responsible only for "necessaries" purchased by his wife. He asserted that the sixty-six articles enumerated in the Worth bill were mere luxuries, and that, therefore, he was not responsible for their cost.

Mrs. Thomas, when the papers were served upon her, made answer in the following legal fashion:

"The defendant alleges that at all times named herein in the complaint she was and now is the wife of Herbert Franklin Thomas; that the goods, wares and merchandise mentioned in the complaint were necessaries of life, and said goods were delivered to the defendant as wife of said Herbert Franklin Thomas."

The auburn-tressed beauty will have to appear before Justice Ford to-day, and Attorney Varian, for Worth, has some interesting questions to ask her. For instance:

"What gowns, furs and lingerie of a quality similar to those supplied by Worth were in your possession before you purchased these at issue?"

"Enumerate the gowns, furs, lingerie, robes, etc., that made up your wardrobe before your marriage."

"What was your income before your marriage?"

"In what respect has your mode of living changed since marriage?"

Some of the "Necessaries."

Mr. Varian said yesterday there would probably be other interrogations, but those would do for starters.

It is quite possible, too, that Justice Ford may have a few queries to make, and he may even decide to have a look at the diamond-studded parasol. Spectators, in view of such a treat, are likely to be numerous.

Here are a few of the "necessaries" and their cost:

Sable tail	$255.50
Liberty dress, with malines lace and epaulets embroidered with diamonds	320.00
White chiffon dress with pompadour and lace	320.00
Empire dress of satin, passed with silver and embroidery	320.00
Green satin overcoat, decorated with lace and embroidery	190.00

The piece de resistance, however, is the parasol of baby blue chiffon. Mrs. Thomas's initials were set upon the handle in sparkling diamonds. Worth had to have the jewelry job done by another pet of fashion, Lemoine, and he appends the latter's bill to his own.

Suit Revealed Secret Marriage.

According to the bill, the various articles were purchased from Worth between November 28, 1905, and June 21, 1906. It required several weeks of hard work by a process server, Attorney Varian said, to serve the necessary papers.

The Thomases lived at the Waldorf upon their return from France. Then they moved to the Hotel Manhattan and latterly to the Hotel Wyoming, an exclusive apartment house at Fifty-fifth street and Seventh avenue.

Oddly, it was another dressmaker's suit, in 1903, that first brought to light the fact that the former footlight favorite had become Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. Ora Cecil Bell Jacobs brought suit against her for $624. The suit was settled.

In the first place Miss Caskie came to New York in 1897 and went up the stage. She was from the South and said she was a granddaughter of former Governor Gregory, of Virginia.

A year later, down at a Jersey resort, she saved the life of Walter Prager, a rich young man, who fell in love with her and married her. They were divorced soon afterward and then young Mr. Thomas appeared as a successful suitor. But his marriage was kept a secret until the modiste brought the first suit.

VETERAN DEMOCRAT DIES AT 88 YEARS

MOB CHASES MAN ACCUSED OF STABBING

To-day Pietro Pisterino, of Everett, who was so hotly pursued by a mob of over 100 infuriated men and boys armed with clubs, that he barely reached the shelter of the Everett police station, faces a charge of attack with a deadly weapon in the Everett court. Pisterino is alleged to have thrust a knife into the right side of Harry O'Donnell, of No. 238 Main street, during a row at the corner of West and Main streets, West Everett.

According to the stories told of the police, several boys were having an argument over the ownership of a ring that one of the boys had taken from another. William O'Donnell was the boy alleged to have taken the ring, and it is said that Pietro told him to give it back.

Harry O'Donnell, brother of William, seeing the crowd, walked down to see what was going on. It is alleged that the Italian struck William O'Donnell for refusing to give up the ring and then turned and ran.

Harry O'Donnell saw him coming and, according to his story, he stepped back against a building to let Pisterino pass. As the Italian came toward him, O'Donnell says he saw him draw a large pocket knife with open blade and when he passed make a stab at O'Donnell.

O'Donnell took part in the chase, but when he arrived at the station he was so weak from the loss of blood that he was removed to the office of Dr. Clark nearby. Several stitches were taken by the doctor, assisted by City Physician Charles A. Ordway.

Pisterino was held by the police, but was later bailed out under $1,000 bonds furnished by Antonio Malta.

"PAPA BARNES" COMES TO AID STRANDED SON

Father Defends Young Son and Declares He Is Not a Spendthrift.

Relief is in sight for Oliver Wendell Barnes, the young spendthrift, whose fast pace in this city was abruptly halted yesterday by the refusal of his hotel manager to honor his checks, and who has been practically stranded for twenty-four hours.

Edward R. Barnes, "good old Papa Barnes," who is chief engineer of the G. T. & I. Railroad at Grand Rapids, has come to the rescue, and is due to arrive in town to-day, together with C. R. Cook, a wealthy Michigan merchant, and they will straighten out the financial difficulties of the young man.

Manager Hartshorn's fears regarding the payment of his bill at the Netherlands were dispelled somewhat yesterday by the information that his guest still had to his credit ten $1,000 bonds of the City of Chester, Pa.

Mr. Hartshorn was satisfied as to the financial probity of his star occupant of Suite D, when it had been broken to him by Attorney Flagg, representing Barnes, that the bonds are actually in his hands and that they be realized upon next Tuesday.

The elder Barnes is not of the opinion that Oliver Wendell, 2d, is a spendthrift. He points out that his son has only spent a matter of $50,000 or so and that he can see no reason why he should not go along his way rejoicing.

"I can't see where the boy needs a guardian." He has made money and has spent money. He is quite able to take care of himself."

When seen, Mr. Barnes, Jr., said:

"We have had a quiet little time here and I don't suppose that the total bill will run far in excess of $1,000 or $1,200.

"Mr. Hartshorn is now satisfied that there is no real risk in doing business with me for a day or two and when the Chester bonds are realized there will be plenty of money to settle up everything and give me a little loose change for something in the way of a farewell party."

INSANITY PLEA FOR SEARLES

FARMINGTON, Me., Sept. 21.—An unexpected move has been made in the Searles murder case assigned for trial at the Supreme Court session which begins next week by the removal to the insane asylum at Augusta of Harvey A. Searles, the Rangeley guide, charged with the murder of his wife Phyllis on July 14th last in Chesterville. Searles will be placed under the custody of Dr. Sanborn for examination into his mental state. This move was made through Elmer E. Richards, attorney for Searles, and indicates that the defence will be insanity.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUERS IN NORTHAMPTON

(From the Northampton Herald, Sept. 18.)

The City Hall did not tremble very much last night, although the city committees of two political parties met there.

There were furtive glances from one room to the other, as the Independence Leaguers gathered in the Aldermen's room and the Democrats turned into the Common Council, and as occasionally a Leaguer put his head inquiringly into the doorway of the Whitney headquarters and found himself advancing into the wrong pew, he withdrew, followed by a sigh from the few "unterrified" who probably still maintained the announced attitude of one of their number who recently gave out that "Hub" Whitney was a good man to kill off those Independence Leaguers with any way."

It was announced from the Common Council room, after the meeting last evening that there was only a small attendance at the meeting of the Democratic Committee. No notices had been sent out, the officers depending on newspaper publicity to arouse the interest of the members of the committee and secure their presence. * * *

On the other side of the City Hall corridor, in the Aldermen's room, it was given out that there was an enthusiastic, comparatively large gathering, for a committee meeting. Every ward in the city, except Ward 7, was represented, and there were several from each ward.

John J. Prokup presided and Arthur Lee was chosen secretary. The treasurer reported all bills paid and several dollars in cash on hand. The executive committee were instructed to act with the secretary in arranging for a rally or rallies, and discussion followed concerning the caucuses for next Monday night. It was also suggested that nominations be made this year for Senator in the Hampshire-Berkshire district.

All present were called upon and spoke briefly with enthusiasm, and a full delegation will undoubtedly attend the State convention at Faneuil Hall.

OLD POTATOES MADE NEW BY DEALERS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 21.—The "rejuvenated potato" is the latest form of adulterated food to which State Food Commissioner R. W. Dunlap's attention has been called. Local dealers are treating potatoes of the crop of 1906 with some liquid that peels off the skin after the manner of the "new potatoes" and at the same time gives the potato the characteristic pink tinge.

MORAN TO JAIL GRAFT TAKERS IN CITY PROBE

District Attorney Joins Forces With the Members of the Finance Commission.

District Attorney John B. Moran and the Finance Commission have joined forces and the probe into the city affairs will be pushed with renewed vigor and criminal prosecutions are likely to follow the graft disclosures.

That all friction between the district attorney and the commission has been wiped out was evidenced by Mr. Moran's visit to the headquarters of the probers in the Tremont building where he spent an hour in talking over plans.

Mr. Moran has already started a personal investigation into some of the disclosures brought out by the commission and the matter may be brought to the Grand Jury at an early date.

Moran also paid a short visit to City Hall. He only remained a few moments, and examined several papers.

While he would not say what his business was, it was ascertained later that he looked over several papers relating to the purchase of coal by the city. He also looked over some vouchers and accounts of prominent city officials.

After leaving the office of the Finance Commission District Attorney Moran said:

"There will be no trouble in the future between the Finance Commission and the District Attorney's office. I have just met the members of the Commission and everything is working smoothly."

Within the last fifteen years the Bobbs-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis, has grown to be one of the biggest and strongest publishing houses in the country. They were the first publishers of James Whitcomb Riley's poems, but since then have had wonderful success in publishing such "best selling novels" as "When Knighthood Was in Flower," by Charles Major; "The House of a Thousand Candles," by Meredith Nicholson; "The Bishop's Carriage," "The Man on the Box," "The Man of the Hour," and the best works of many other well known writers.

Good judgment and original, aggressive methods have made the Bobbs-Merrill Company what it is—a big, successful concern, with assets of more than a million and a high reputation in the business world.

The Most Interesting Magazine.

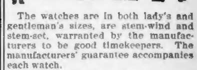

Some years ago this company bought up a number of well known magazines and consolidated them all under the name of "The Home Magazine." The splendid quality of the magazine, its good stories by the best writers of the day, its wealth of pictures by such famous artists as Howard Chandler Christy, Harrison Fisher, John Cecil Clay, A. B. Wenzell and its highly interesting and attractive departments, have given it a rapid, healthy growth to a quarter of a million circulation. It is a money-maker, getting high prices for its advertising space.

But the big publishing house is not satisfied with ordinary success. It wants and is determined to have the biggest circulation among intelligent people of any magazine in the country. It is giving more and better literature at a dollar a year than any other magazine at any price. But there are millions of people in America who don't know this and never will know it until they see the magazine and read it. The publishers feel that as many people as try The Home Magazine will become permanent subscribers.

The Million Mark.

They want a million subscribers, and are willing to spend a million dollars to get them, for once they are gotten, The Home Magazine, as a property, will be worth millions of dollars on its advertising revenue alone.

To this end the Bobbs-Merrill Company is offering a watch to every person sending in one dollar for a year's subscription to The Home Magazine and a correct solution to this simple rebus:

The watches are in both lady's and gentleman's sizes, are stem-wind and stem-set, warranted by the manufacturers to be good timekeepers. The manufacturers' guarantee accompanies each watch.

How to Get a Watch.

Clip the coupon below and fill in your name and address. Enclose it with one dollar to the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis, Ind. Write your solution of the rebus plainly and indicate your choice of watches by scratching out the one you do not want. All answers must be mailed not later than September 28. The Home Magazine will be sent to you for one year. On October 5 a list of the winners of watches from among the readers of this paper will be published in these columns.

To Keep the Baby in Health

When He Is Teething

WHEN a baby is teething he requires a good deal of looking after. Often at this time he is afflicted with a cough and mothers generally have recourse to various cough mixtures, sometimes with fatal results, as these mixtures frequently contain opium. The following medicine will be found to be better in every way: Mix 20 drops of ipecacuanha wine, 1 dram of simple syrup, 2 grains of carbonate of ammonia and sufficient peppermint water to make 1 ounce. If he is under twelve months the dose should be one teaspoonful; if over twelve months, 2 teaspoonfuls.

To Stop Convulsions

IF he has convulsions, plunge him up to his neck in a bath of a temperature of 98 degrees Fahrenheit.

Keep Down the Fever

THE mother should try her best to keep down the fever of teething. The fever is caused by the inflammation of the gums, and it in its turn may give rise to convulsions and other undesirable conditions. A reliable recipe for a child one year old is the following: Two and a half drams of spirit of nitrous ether, half an ounce of fluid acetate of ammonia, half an ounce of syrup of orange flowers and sufficient dill water to make the mixture fill a two-ounce bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful every two hours.

Bed Out of Draught

THE position of baby's bed should be carefully looked to. Do not let it stand in a draught, and in case the windows and door are in awkward places, shield the bed by means of a screen. The bed should also be protected from the first rays of the sun, for baby is usually very easily awakened.

Sleep on Right Side

DON'T let him sleep with his head under the bedclothes, and see to it that he sleeps on his right side and not on his back. Don't let him sleep under heavy bedclothes, no matter how chilly the night may be, for such a practice is enervating and weakening.

Get a "Baby's Yard"

GET what is sold as a "baby's yard" for him. It is a railing four-square and hinged at the corners. It may be folded into a small space when not in use and set against the wall.

Take it into the open air—onto the porch if you have no turfed yard or lot—open and fasten it at the corners, inclosing a space four or five feet wide each way, and spread a folded comfortable in the bottom.

Set Master Baby within the yard, and let him roll and kick. Surround him with his toys, and when he is sleepy put a pillow down and let him have a nap there.

He will soon try to pull himself to his feet by the rail, and if he falls the folded quilt protects him from harm. If you have a yard and trees, establish him and his railed inclosure there. He will brown and grow like any other young thing committed to the care of Mother Nature.

PROTECT YOUR PILLOWS

A GOOD protection for your better pillows when used during the Summer months is the large bandana handkerchief. Sew up the square, leaving the ends open part way, and tie these in knots on the corners.

HOW WOMEN SOUVENIR COLLECTORS DRIVE HOTEL MEN TO DISTRACTION

Mania Is Growing Worse from Year to Year

PROPRIETORS of several of the finest hotels in Boston declare that they have been driven almost to distraction this Summer by the depredations of those individuals who are styled "souvenir hunters" for the sake of politeness.

The craze of the curio seeker is becoming more pronounced every year, and the bonifaces who desire to keep the appointments of every part of their hostelries in keeping with the service furnished say that the ingenuity displayed by even wealthy women guests bent on removing all the silver and linen in sight would do credit to an up-to-date burglar.

Hotel proprietors all over the world are confronted with the same problem as those in Boston. This class of people, most of whom really do not need the articles they "collect," belong to the same ranks of society as those who will slash the buttons from officers' uniforms, knock fragments of stone from ornate Westminster Abbey or St. Paul's Church in London and tear leaves from priceless books.

Take Them Home

THEY make a practice of stealing at least one article from every hotel at which they stay for a souvenir. The intent of most of the souvenir hunters, it must be admitted, is not that of the ordinary thief, but there are others who make a business of furnishing their homes during the Summer vacations.

"Why, you can go into wealthy homes in fine residential sections," said a well-known hotel man to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, "and in three out of every five you can find, if you are a guest at dinner, articles of silverware on the table with the mark of hotels all over the world. Many tables are furnished entirely with silver, including salt and pepper shakers, stolen from places where they have stopped.

"Go into the bathroom, and the towels are marked with the name of some hotel or the Pullman company. If you stay over night you sleep between sheets used to fill up the trunks when the family left the Summer hotel, and your head reposes on pillow slips coming from the same source."

The depredations of the souvenir hunter on railroads have become so extensive that as a train nears a terminal nowadays the Pullman porters lock up all the brushes, combs, etc., in the lavatories, even stripping the chairs of the linen coverings to insure their safety.

An elaborate system of espionage is maintained in most of the large hotels to prevent wholesale thefts by collectors, yet these hostelries lose thousands of dollars annually in spite of their precautions.

How They Do It

THE wiles of the souvenir chasers are innumerable and extremely novel. Women at the dining table slip silver of all kinds into their shirt waists, up their sleeves and into their shoes, or even stockings, while the waiters are not looking.

Feminine guests have even been known to remove articles like glass water jugs and cream pitchers. Anything too large to be hidden in an ordinary manner can be concealed under a cloak thrown over the chair, or deftly slipped into a sunshade or umbrella. Such small souvenirs as spoons, pepper boxes, etc., of course, can be hidden in a handkerchief.

So powerless are hotel managers to protect their furnishings that many high-class places are compelled to furnish their rooms, at least, in a manner less luxurious than they would wish.

At the Waldorf-Astoria in New York the experiment was tried of having beautiful clocks placed on the mantels in every room. But it didn't work. The clocks did, but they disappeared as though they were automobiles, and now there are few placed in guests' rooms.

The upper left-hand photograph shows how silver spoons are slipped up the sleeve. The upper picture on the right illustrates how small articles are concealed in handkerchiefs. The lower photos show the usefulness of the sunshade or umbrella for the "collectors'" purposes.

The Most Desirable Quality in a Wife Is Sound Horse Sense

By Dorothy Dix

THE quality that I should look for first in a wife is good, hard common sense—the variety that is known as horse sense.

The reason why this is the rarest of all virtues among women is because it is the one least esteemed by man, and therefore least cultivated by the feminine sex.

Heaven alone knows why, but as a rule the less intelligence and reason that a girl displays the more she is admired by men. That is, before marriage.

After marriage, when a man goes up good and hard against the sweet unreason that once upon a time enchanted him, he takes a very different view of the subject. But that's another story.

To begin with, it seems to him charming and romantic and alluring for a woman to be full of whims and contradictions and illogical opinions, and beside her the girl who is plain matter of fact and commonsensical seems like bread and butter beside an omelette souffle; and so, as human nature always prefers the luxuries to the necessities of life, a man, unless he is a genius of common sense himself, is apt to take the flighty girl who fires his fancy, instead of the reasonable one who would be a comfort to him all the days of his life.

In politics and matrimony the logical candidate seldom gets a nomination, which explains why so many women who are cut out to make good wives are spinsters.

Common Sense Best

COMMON sense is, to my mind, the star quality in a wife, because if a woman has that all other desirable attributes shall be added to her. It gives her, to start with, the inestimable ability to learn and to change to meet the needs of the day and hour.

If a man marries a poor girl who has plenty of common sense, and he becomes rich, she will go to work to fit herself for the position to which she has been called. She will not become unduly puffed up, or become so disgusting a brag as so many silly women of the new rich are, but she will go slowly until she is sure of her ground. She will study the art of dress, the art of entertaining, the art of making the most of herself, so that she may avoid the reproach of being a parvenue.

Foreigners are dumfounded at the ease and grace with which so many untrained American girls who have married titles have taken their places with perfect poise as the mistresses of great houses in the most fashionable society in the world.

They have all the grace and savoir faire of those destined for the purple, and yet many of these girls were born in a workingman's cottage.

The explanation is simple enough. The hard horse sense that enabled their fathers to pile up their fortunes has enabled their daughters to know how to spend it and to keep their heads in the vortex of London and Paris seasons.

If, on the other hand, a reverse of fortune comes to a man he can have no other hand stretched out to help him equal to that of a wife with good, common sense.

She will meet bad luck with as unmoved a face as she does good. She may have been reared in luxury, and never have so much as buttoned her shoe in her life, but if it is necessary she will roll up her sleeves and go to work and support the family taking boarders, or tuck up her petticoats and preside behind a ribbon counter with as much suavity and ability and popularity as she ever did behind her dinner table.

It is only the fool woman who howls and weeps and makes a bad matter worse by her lamentations and reproaches when things go wrong with her husband.

Does Not Nag

A WOMAN with strong common sense does not nag a man to death expecting the impossible of him. She knows that humanity is weak and a man is a man and not a demigod, even if he is her husband.

She has the blessed faculty of being able to see a man's point of view, and to be able to make excuses for his weaknesses.

The common-sense woman does not raise a row every time a man wants to go downtown of a night or an evening. She knows that there are business matters that can be come at over the soothing influence of a good dinner better than any other way.

Furthermore, she appreciates that even the most domestic man does not want to be always handcuffed to his wife—that he yearns for men's society and men's amusements.

Above all, she rises to the almost supernal heights for a woman of conceding that a full-grown man who has evinced enough intelligence to take care of himself for thirty years or so and acquire a reasonable competence and place in the world, is entitled to his own opinions, his own taste in eating and drinking, and his own liberty unedited and unpoliced by his wife. And when a woman reaches that point, brethren, she is almost ready to be canonized.

Still another reason for picking out a woman by her common sense when one comes to select a wife is that it is all-important that a wife should take a reasonable view of things.

A woman's life is made up of things that become tragedies or comedies, according to the light in which she sees them.

Way to Ruin Home

I HAVE seen a conscientious woman ruin the happiness of a home tormenting a good husband and alienating his affection by trying to make him change his religion to the faith she held. I have seen a woman nag a domestic man into the saloon about some foolish little habit that he had, and I have seen hundreds of women break their hearts imagining that their husbands had ceased to love them, when only the poor men were worried about their business and so overworked that they were too tired to be sentimental.

A woman with common sense avoids all of these dangers. She takes a man as he is, and when she gets married she gives her imagination a rest. She can see that a woman has no call to worry over the temperature of a man's affection as long as he is toiling night and day to support her.

Common sense is really the solvent of the whole matrimonial question, and no man who marries a woman who possesses it ever regrets it.

For beauty will fade, and wit may pall on the taste, and even love cloy on the palate, but the wife who can be depended on to do the rational thing and take the same view of every subject is a side partner who is always there with the goods of happiness.

WHITE NOW USED FOR MOURNING

BLACK mourning has had its day, says the foreign fashion papers. We are henceforth to wear white mourning. This is not so much a reversion as a further imitation of the victorious Japanese.

A black hat, feathers and gloves, with a white dress, will be in style, and it will be better than entirely in white; unbroken whiteness is so blank, so insipid as to be almost penitential.

The widow of royal line 400 years ago was in white from top to toe. La Marguerite des Marguerites, who had lost her husband at the battle of Pavia, went to Madrid to visit her captive brother habited in white—wimple, riding habit and all in white, in sign of widowhood.

Black mourning came in from Florence with Catherine de Medici. Violet mourning for the head of the State went out with the revolution.

"THE TURN OF THE BALANCE"

A Thrilling Story of American Life by Brand Whitlock

CHAPTER XII.—Continued

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

"DH, yes," Marriott laughed, "father would say, and grandfather would say, too, that's just the trouble. Father got his notions from the Old World, but we—Gusta, we know more than father or grandfather in this country."

Marriott enjoyed the discomfiture that Gusta plainly showed in her inability to understand in the least what he was saying. He felt a little mean about it, for he recognized that he was speaking for his own benefit rather than for hers; he had wished Elizabeth might be there to hear him.

"I don't know much about it, Mr. Marriott," Gusta said presently, "but when will you go to see him?"

"Oh, I'll try to get down this afternoon."

"All right. He told me to ask you please to bring him some cigarettes. Of course," she was going on in an apologetic tone, but Marriott cut her short:

"Oh, he wants cigarettes! Well, I'll take them to him."

Then they talked the futilities which were all such a case could inspire, and Marriott, looking at his watch, made Gusta feel that she should go. But the world wore a new aspect for her when she left Marriott's office.

The Spring was warm, and she felt that she had the right to glory in it. The crowds in the streets seemed human and near, not far away and strange as they had been before; she felt that she had somehow been restored to her own rights in life.

Did Not Understand.

She had not understood Marriott's philosophy in the least, but she went away with the memory of his face and the memory of his smile; she could not realize her thoughts; it was a feeling more than anything else, but she knew that here was one man, at least, who believed in her brother, and it seemed that he was determined to believe in him no matter what the brother did; and he believed in her, too, and this was everything—this made the whole world glad, just as the sun made the whole world glad that morning.

But Gusta's heart sank at the thought of going home; there was nothing there but discord and toil.

The excitement, the change of the morning, the little interview with Marriott, had served to divert her, and now the thought of returning to that dull and wearisome routine was more than ever distasteful.

It was nearly noon and she would be expected, but she did not like to lose these impressions, and she did not like to leave this warm sunshine, these busy, moving streets, this contact with active life, and so she wandered on out Claybourne avenue.

There was slowly taking form within her a notion of eking out her pleasure by going to see Elizabeth Ward, but she did not let the thought wholly take form; rather she let it lie dormant under her other thoughts. She walked along in the sunlight and looked at the automobiles that went trumpeting by, at the carriages rolling home with their aristocratic mistresses lolling on their cushions.

Recognition.

Gusta found a pleasure in recognizing many of these women; she had opened the Ward's big front door to them, she had served them with tea, or at dinner; she had heard their subdued laughter; she had covertly inspected their toilets; some of them had glanced for an instant into her eyes, and thanked her for some little service.

And then she could recall things she had heard them say, bits of gossip or scandal, some of which gave her pleasure, others feelings of hatred and disgust. A very rosy young matron drove by in a phaeton, with her pretty children piled about her feet, and the sight pleased Gusta. She smiled and hurried on with quickened step.

At last she saw the familiar house, and then to her joy she saw Elizabeth on the veranda, leaning against one of the pillars, evidently taking the air, enjoying the sun and the Spring. Elizabeth saw Gusta, too, and her eyes brightened.

"Why, Gusta!" she said, "is that you?"

Gusta stood on the steps and looked up at Elizabeth. Her face was rosy with embarrassment and pleasure. Elizabeth perched on the rail of the veranda and examined the vine of Virginia roses that had not yet begun to put forth.

"And how are you getting along?" she said. "How are they all at home?"

Gusta told her of her father and of her mother and of the children.

Elizabeth tried to talk to her; she was fond of her, but there seemed to be nothing to talk about. She knew, too, how Gusta adored her, and she felt that she must always retain this adoration, and constantly prove her kindness to Gusta. But the conversation was nothing but a series of questions she extorted from herself by a continued effort that quickly wearied her, especially as Gusta's replies were delivered so promptly and so laconically that she could not think of other questions fast enough. At last she said:

"And how's Archie?"

And then instantly she remembered that Archie was in prison. Her heart smote her for her thoughtlessness. Gusta's head was hanging.

"I've just been to see him," she said.

"I wished to hear of him, Gusta," Elizabeth said, trying by her tone to destroy the quality of her first question. "I spoke to Mr. Marriott about him—I'm sure he'll get him off."

Gusta made no reply, and Elizabeth saw that her tears were falling.

"Come, Gusta," she said, sympathetically, "you mustn't feel bad."

INDIA TO RISE AGAINST RULE OF THE BRITON

President Rutnam of Ceylon Central College Tells of Spirit of Unrest.

PREDICTS BIG REBELLION

That a great uprising in India is coming in which the natives will oust the British is the opinion of S. C. Kanaga Rutnam, president of the Central College, Colombo, Ceylon, who is in Boston for the International Congress of Religious Liberals.

Mr. Rutnam is a full-blooded Hindoo and is a committeeman of the Ceylon National Association and secretary of the Ceylon University Association, also editor of the latter's official organ.

His wife, a white woman, was formerly Miss Mary H. Irwin of Clinton, Ontario, Canada. She is a physician and her marriage was a very romantic one. She is now visiting her parents' home.

Mr. Rutnam firmly believes that if England doesn't change her policy her rule in India will soon cease. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter he said:

Predicts Great Rebellion.

"England will surely lose India if she doesn't change her policy of distrust and selfishness. History will repeat itself and a rebellion even greater than the American Revolution will be the result if present conditions are not changed. The people of my country are confident that if war comes they will be the victors and England the loser.

"To-day India is passing through a period of utter unrest. The unrest is largely due to the conviction of Indian leaders that justice is not meted out to the people by England. The solemn pledges of equal citizenship made by England ever since 1669, when the British East India started, have been broken and disregarded.

"I believe England has broken nearly every pledge she ever made to India, in fact the spirit of her promises has not been kept and the official Englishmen know this better than the Hindoos themselves.

"Lord Lytton, in an official dispatch to the home office in London, practically admitted that England had to continually deceive the Indian. This dispatch, which was meant to be confidential, leaked out.

Citizenship Promised Brother.

"First of all the pledge was given to us in 1669 that we would be given full, free and equal British citizenship. England has failed to do this even to this day. The Indian National Congress, a native institution, and its predecessor have been working constitutionally for nearly fifty years but their resolutions and opinions have been very much like the voice of the prophet crying in the wilderness.

"The legislative councils throughout India and Ceylon are the greatest farces ever enacted in the political world. No self-respecting Hindoo would care to serve in these bodies, as the governors of these councils have taken care that they have an official majority of their henchmen who vote as they wish. These henchmen are Englishmen.

"I believe each governor is more autocratic in his own presidency than even the Czar of Russia with this exception, that the Czar rules his own countrymen, whereas, we often have foreign autocrats who refuse to have any sympathy with the people they administer.

Enormous Indian Revenue.

"The Prince of Wales, who recently visited India, on his return to England wished that there was more sympathy, tangible, definite sympathy between the rulers and the ruled. This is the great need of India to-day. He said this and it is a fact.

"To-day England is facing a uniting India, even the Hindoos and Mohammedans are drawing closer and closer together, and England will stand or fall as she will soon decide to rule India justly or unjustly.

"If not for affiliation with India, England would be the sixth or seventh power in the world to-day instead of the first. The total annual revenue derived from India by England is $225,000,000. Of this amount $100,000,000 is spent on the army, an army which is not needed at all, to fight the Russians, whereas only $4,000,000 is spent on the education of the people.

"England appears to believe more in militarism than the education of the people, which, from the Indian people's viewpoint is an atrocity. India is becoming poorer every year, and it could not become otherwise, for $165,000,000 is drained out of India every year by England without any return whatever to India.

Look for Victory in Case of War.

"Since the Russian-Japanese war the people of India seem to realize what they might do if they were given the opportunity. India, which has given birth to the great religious systems of the world and supplied China and Japan with their philosophy, believes that she can do as much and even more than Japan accomplished when she defeated Russia.

"This belief is so deep rooted to-day in the minds of the Indian leaders that they are sure they are not fighting a hopeless struggle. They are confident that if war comes they will be the victors and England the loser.

"The great cry to-day in our country is 'India for the Indians.' The same condition which existed in America just before the revolution exists to-day in India.

"I believe the Asiatic races are coming closer and closer and Japan is probably more interested in the freedom of India than any other power. I do not believe there is any heart alliance between Japan and England, the alliance is only on paper and is really not worth what it's written on.

"The thoughtful men of the world have to seriously consider if there is not a drawing together of all the Asiatic races. The influence of Japan in India is becoming more and more asserted every day.

"I do not believe that we as a people are yet ready for self government, although we certainly are ahead of both the Cubans and Filipinos.

"America has done more politically for the Cubans and the Filipinos during the last ten years than what England has done for us in the last 150 years.

'ABE' HUMMEL SLOWLY DYING, GIRL DECLARES

Young Woman Who Has Been His Constant Visitor Tells of His Wasting Away.

PITIFUL SIGHT SHE SAYS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The condition of "Abe" Hummel, once famous criminal lawyer, now occupant of a cot in the hospital ward of Blackwell's Island, was described to-day by Miss Josephine Brown, of No. 204 West Ninety-fourth street, who has been a constant visitor to him since his incarceration. "It is truly pathetic," said she, "to see a man of his ability lying there helpless among a motly array of paupers, criminals and foreign people. He is wasted and worn, and it is my firm belief that he will not live many months longer.

"To think that Mr. Hummel, who was so virile and such a ceaseless worker, should be lying there under the gray prison blankets, as helpless as a child, with none but strange people around him, makes my heart go out in sympathy toward him.

Prison Killing Him.

"When he first entered the hospital ward he was fighting against ill-health with the same sturdy determination that characterized his many bitter fights in the legal arena. Gradually the depressive atmosphere of his environment settled down upon his frail constitution, the shock being more than he could withstand.

"I think it is a settled opinion among the doctors in the hospital that Mr. Hummel will not live out his term. He is growing weaker day by day, and seems to be unable to rally. He does not shrink from receiving visitors, who, like myself, are his firm friends. He knows that we believe in his innocence and are only awaiting the day until we can welcome him back among us again, but he fails pitifully to respond to our well wishes and hopes.

"Mr. Hummel makes no complaint about his surroundings. He seems to be grateful for the little favors that Deputy Warden Murtha and the doctors of the hospital ward grant him. He accepts the institution's rules with resignation and tries to make the deputy warden and the doctors understand that he does not expect more than the ordinary patient receives.

Is Wasting Away.

"It has been reported that Mr. Hummel's illness has been exaggerated. Persons who think thus cannot understand what it means suddenly to transport a man of his temperament from the world in which he had been living to the dull, dreary routine of a hospital ward on Blackwell's Island. His friends see him gradually wasting away and their sorrow is bitter, for wherever he has a friend it is a true friend. It is truly pathetic the great interest Mr. Hummel manifests in seeing old acquaintances and hearing their personal tales of the world from which he is separated. Of course, he has the newspapers, but then there are stories and personal side lights of the town that he listens to with the keenest interest."

Her Stage "Angel."

Miss Brown, when in short skirts many years ago, in company with her mother, Mrs. R. L. Brown, sought the office of the then famous lawyer, "Abe" Hummel, and he started her on a successful stage career, which ended in her present position of juvenile woman in "The Man in the Case," at the Madison Square Theatre.

Mr. Hummel's good offices she has never forgotten, and now during his imprisonment she makes weekly visits to Blackwell's Island to cheer him up with flowers and words of encouragement.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Alleging that five members of the Public Grounds Department Union were discharged because they had given evidence before the district attorney in regard to violations of the eight-hour law, the Joint Council of City Employes' Union at last night's meeting decided that unless the men were reinstated the matter would be placed in the hands of District Attorney Moran for investigation. The Park Commission now has the matter under consideration, and future action depends upon its decision, which is expected to be made before the next meeting of the Council, October 4.

Delegates from the Ferry Department Employes' Union were admitted to the Council last night. A committee was appointed to arrange for a mass meeting of the nine affiliated unions in Faneuil Hall in the near future to jubilate over the $2.25 daily wage granted the city employes recently, and also to act on several important matters of interest to all the city employes.

PRESIDENT FOR 20 TERMS.

Thomas F. Keough was re-elected president of Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' Union for the twentieth term. Other officers chosen were: Vice-President, Raymond C. Brown; financial secretary, Edward Kelley; corresponding secretary, Joseph F. Kneeland; sergeant-at-arms, James A. Carey. Archibald A. Grady was chosen chairman and Judd A. Murray secretary of the executive board. At a smoke-talk to be held October 2, a reception will be tendered Edward Kelley on his departure for Chicago as delegate to the International Convention which opens there October 7.

CASHMAN A CANDIDATE.

The Building Trades Council elects officers to-morrow afternoon at No. 18 Kneeland street. Business Agent John T. Cashman will be a candidate for re-election. It was announced at last night's meeting of the grievance committee of the Council that Plasterers' Tenders' Union, North Dorchester, had raised its initiation fee from $10 to $20. The union meets on the first Monday and third Sunday of the month at No. 204 Adams street, Dorchester.

MEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

Commercial Telegraphers' Union No. 4, No. 694 Washington st. Report on strike situation.

Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' Union, No. 721 Washington street.

(Secretaries are requested to notify the Labor Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, of any change in the time and place of meetings.)

LABOR NOTES.

President Joseph P. Kilday has been elected by Public Grounds Department Union No. 12,434 as its delegate to the State Branch, A. F. of L., convention, which opens October 14 at Milford.

A special meeting of Ward 19 Wage Earners' Club will be held to-morrow night at Wage Earners' Hall, No. 1,109 Columbus avenue, Roxbury Crossing, at which addresses will be made by several prominent leaders of the movement.

J. A. Gorman and Michael J. O'Brien of the Boston District Council of City Employes' Union will install officers of new city men's unions to-morrow at Lowell and Lawrence.

BEAUTY WINS FAVOR IN AMATEUR BILL

John Gannon, from South Boston, with a rich musical brogue, was the star of last night's amateur bill at the Columbia, and he certainly made the crowd laugh until some of them nearly rolled off their seats. The young man's specialty was singing, which was as poor a specimen of warbling as was ever delivered, but his actions were what counted, having more frills and airs that the highest-priced grand opera tenor. "It was a bright May morning" was the burden of his lay, but he was not allowed to tell what happened on that "bright May morning," for the hook got after him in lively fashion. Miss Fanny Larkin and her sister May were the prettiest girls seen on an amateur bill so far this season, and made the biggest kind of a hit with the crowd.

SECRETLY WEDS GIRL EMPLOYED BY FATHER

The younger element of Cambridge is discussing the romantic marriage of Miss Esther L. Blomquist and Howard Bushway, who slipped away to Providence and were quietly married. The young couple were both employed in the store owned by the elder Bushway. The young couple were both back at their duties in the store to-day.

No more lifts for the Naps toward the championship is the slogan now in the Pilgrim's camp, and they will tackle Lajoie's band for the second time this afternoon, determined to make up for the defeat of yesterday.

The Naps will probably rule a slight favorite, which is due them for being so prominent in the pennant race, but the Hub team will be a good short end in this conflict. The Naps have used up their best flinger, as Addie Joss, the star slabman of the Naps' pitching corps, opened the series, and though he set a fine example for the rest to follow, the Pilgrims will be able to handle the other curve artists which the Naps present.

Glaze or Winter will be the nomination for the home bunch to fool the Naps.

Berger will endeavor to prolong the Napas' triumphant march.

It was all Addie Joss in the game yesterday, which went to the Naps by the score of 4 to 1, and the slatten pitcher put knots in the Pilgrim batters. Uncle Cy Young was thought to be about ready for a successful trip, and he looked good to the fans when he went to the station, but the Naps nibbled at his delivery and bumped the ball when necessary.

Naps Come in Late.

There came near being no contest, owing to the belated arrival of the Naps. Of course, it was the B. & A. service the Naps used, and was nearly five hours behind schedule. The Naps dressed on the train and were hustled to the field, arriving fifteen minutes after the hour called for starting. It would have been a kind act if another hour had been tacked on to the delay and a defeat held up.

The Naps certainly didn't show any lack of life after riding continuously from Cleveland and were on the job from the start.

They commenced to collect the tallies in the third, after Joss had fanned. Flick slammed one to right centre in the direction of the flag pole, and only fast sprinting by Sullivan kept Flick on second. Wagner handled Bradley's slow one, but threw high to Unglaub, and Flick journeyed to third. Young made a pass to catch Flick off the third corner, but the ball got away from Parent and Flick scored, while Bradley went around to third. Turner's smash to centre scored Bradley. Lajoie hit to Ferris, who touched Turner on the line, and was in time to double up Lajoie at first.

The Pilgrims had a fine chance to draw even in the fourth, but only got one score. Sullivan singled and Parent followed suite. Unglaub forced Sully at third, but Speaker filled the bases by dropping a Texas Leaguer to left. Parent crossed the pan on Ferris's long fly and the bases were filled again, when Wagner was passed. Joss put on steam and got Criger on strikes.

Home Run in Bleachers.

Turner led off with double in the sixth, was sacrificed to third by Lajoie and came home on Nig Clarke's long fly to Sullivan. Hinchman closed the inning by fanning.

The Naps got a lucky run in the ninth, when Birmingham's sharp bounder to left went into the bleachers, and he sauntered around the circuit for an easy home run.

In the last five innings only three Pilgrims saw first. This was in the eighth, when Hoey went to bat for Young and pushed out a single, but was forced by Barrett, who in turn was forced by Sullivan.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Joss is the Naps' winning pitcher and naturally the outcome was in their favor.

It was a record game for time. The teams hustled through in an hour and twenty-six minutes.

The Pilgrims suffered a worse blow than the defeat, as Lou Criger broke a bone in the back of his hand.

It came in the seventh inning, when Joss was at the bat.

A foul caught Lou on the end of the middle finger, bending it back and snapping the bone in the back of his hand. He will probably be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

The club immediately wired for Carrigan, who is with Toronto, to join the club and he will be here at the finish of the Eastern League season.

He was wanted for the championship series between the Eastern and American Association Leagues, but Boston needs him more.

Speaker, the new outfielder, made good on his first appearance here, figuring in a double play, making a single and hitting the ball hard every time up. He is a left-hander and shows speed in every department.

That new Nap, Pete Lister, from Nashville, who held down George Stovall's place at first base, got in three safe licks in four times up and if he keeps that up Manager Lajoie is likely to hoist him in the batting list.

6TH REGIMENT WINS SHOOT

WAKEFIELD, Sept. 21.—The annual State regimental shoot for the tricolor ended to-day, when the 800 and 1,000 range matches were cleaned up. The Sixth Regiment, which won the honors last year, repeated this year, and got the highest total.

The scores were as follows: Sixth Regiment, 2,038; First Corps Cadets, 1,877; First Corps Coast Artillery, 1,857; Eighth Regiment, 1,850; Fifth Regiment, 1,823; Ninth Regiment, 1,761; Naval Brigade, 1,720; Second Regiment, 1,702; Second Corps Cadets, 1,692; Cavalry, 1,640.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—There will be two games played this afternoon between the Doves and the Cubs.

The teams were scheduled to play here yesterday, but after a long consultation, Manager Chance of the locals and Manager Tenney of the visitors decided that the grounds was too wet to permit of play.

Moreover, Manager Tenney knew that his men were all tired out from the long trip from Boston and not in fit condition to play.

Frock May Get Chance.

In the double-header this afternoon, Pat Flaherty, the veteran left-hander, and Frock, one of the new pitching recruits from Worcester, winner of the New England League championship, will probably do the twirling for the Hub team.

The Champion Chicagos have not decided definitely who they will use on the rubber, but it will probably be Orvie Overall and Mordecai Brown, two of their best pitchers.

A number of the Boston regulars are missing. Johnny Bates, the right-fielder, who has a bad leg, and Lindaman, the big twirler, did not accompany the team here, nor did Brown, the catcher.

Poor Work Reason of Absence.

Neither Lindaman or Brown have been doing good work for the Doves lately, which is undoubtedly the reason of their absence.

Catcher Ball, from the Lynn team of the New England League, will probably see his first major league fire this afternoon.

The Doves are confident of taking at least one of the games from the home team this afternoon.

HARVARD FOOTBALL PLAYERS REST TODAY

There will be no practice for the Harvard football squad at Cambridge this afternoon. The men will be given a rest so they can get back in the game Monday with renewed vigor.

Next week the men will get down to real business. This week has been largely devoted to allowing the men a chance to loosen up their joints.

To Sterilize Clothes.

A new wrinkle will be put into operation to-day when all the clothes of the candidates will be sent to this city and sterilized so as to kill germs, which will do away with a lot of blood poisoning cases.

On Monday a large number of veterans are expected to report. Burr, Pierce, Starr, Macdonald, Newhall and Kennard will probably all be on hand. The latter is taking a walking trip through Maine, and expects to arrive in prime condition for football.

The work during the coming week will be calculated to get the men into condition for the Bowdoin game which will be played on Saturday. On Wednesday or Thursday there will be probably a little scrimmage.

Miller Behind in Studies.

Captain Parker's squad is suffering considerably on account of the number of men who seem to be deficient in scholarship. The latest victim is H. F. Miller, a promising candidate for end. Miller played in several games last year, but received a severe injury to his collar bone which kept him out of the game toward the close of the season.

Miller has to work his way through college, which takes a lot of his time from his studies. In consequence of this his college work was so much behind that it was thought doubtful whether he would be allowed by the faculty to return this year. They decided to allow him to come back to college, but put a ban on his football playing for some weeks.

SPORTING NEWS SUMMARY.

FOOTBALL.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21.—Three new coaches are here to instruct the Yale eleven. They are "Brink" Thorne, the 1905 captain, Paul Veeder, who was graduated last June, and Jack Owsley, the well-known halfback. The plan is to have Owsley and Thorne take charge of the defensive work, Veeder of the punting and Billy Knox will supervise the general play.

THE TUFTS football squad received its first practice of the season at the campus at Medford, and although the number of men who reported was small, still it contained nearly all of last year's team, which was encouraging to Coach Whelan.

FORBES, a graduate of the school and former clever football player, has been selected to coach Milton Academy, while Eugene B. Allen, the former Brookline High School athlete, who coached the champion Brookline High eleven, has been selected as trainer, and Dewey, who played right tackle last Fall, has been elected captain.

COACH O'REILLEY was helped by many former English High stars in drilling the E. H. S. squad on Franklin Field yesterday. Pishon, the former quarterback, took charge of one squad, while Whiting, the All-Interscholastic end, directed the work of another. Other well-known "grads" out were Adams, McNulty, Norton and Hayden.

COACH HARRY McDEVITT has only three veterans available for the Newton High football team. They are Captain Paul, Donahue and Van Tassel. The outlook for a winning team is very dubious. Only thirty-five men have reported and another call for men will have to be issued next week.

SOUTH BOSTON HIGH has decided to have a team this Fall. Captain Frank O'Donnell has issued a call for candidates for Monday.

LEO HAFFORD has enough candidates out for his Somerville team to make three elevens.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP of the Western Professional Golfers' Association was won by Fred McLeod of the Midlothian Golf Club of Chicago on the links of the Normandie Club of this city, with a total of 305 strokes for 72 holes in two days' play.

THE ELEANOR, owned by Francis W. Fabyan of Boston, won the third and final race for the Lipton cup, the Dorothy S., owned by Hollis Burgess and F. L. Gay, taking second prize.

EAST BOSTON won three out of four matches in the tennis meet with Boston Latin at Wood Island Park courts, East Boston, yesterday.

MRS. WILLIAM BAZELEY of Uxbridge defeated Miss Dorothy Draper of Hopedale in the final match in the women's tennis tournament for the Worcester County championship of 1907, 6—3, 6—4. Mrs. Bazeley will meet Miss Gertrude Strauss for the title some time next week.

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Sweet Marie, driven by William J. Andrews, made two new world's records for a half-mile track here yesterday by stepping a mile to sulky in 2:07, and to wagon, a half-hour later, in 2:08½.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—The harness horse races scheduled for Electric Park Track yesterday afternoon were called off on account of rain. However, four running races were decided.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 21.—Pitcher Maddox, a recruit from Wheeling, didn't allow Brooklyn a hit in the game here yesterday, which the Pittsburg team won, 2 to 1.

ROUSE NEAR KNOCK OUT BY MOODY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Rouse O'Brien of Boston came mighty near getting knocked out by Willie Moody, the local boy, in their six-round bout before the Spring Garden A. C., as he was sent to the floor in the third and sixth rounds, and only for his extraordinary recuperative powers would not have been able to continue the fight.

O'Brien was continually on the defensive in the opening round, Moody rushing him about the ring and scoring almost at will. O'Brien was twice jarred by right-handed swings on the jaw in the second round.

It was in the third round that O'Brien got his worse punishment. For the first minute O'Brien gave his opponent tit for tat, but towards the close of the round Moody landed two right-hand wallops on the jaw in quick succession and O'Brien dropped and rolled over and over. He got upon his feet at the count of nine and by sheer gameness stayed the rest of the round.

In the fourth and fifth rounds Moody kept rushing his man around the ring, and every time they came together O'Brien clinched. In the sixth the same tactics were in force, until Moody again dropped his adversary with another right swing to the jaw and O'Brien regained his pins and stayed until the final gong by stalling.

RUNNING RACES HURT BASEBALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The race tracks are hurting Coney Island, the theatres and the professional ball games. So declared Senator Reynolds, theatrical and sporting capitalist, here to-day in discussing the turf situation as it is found in these waning days of the 1907 season. Frank J. Farrell, the principal owner of the New York Yankees, fully concurred in respect to the effect the race tracks are having on baseball. According to a man well versed in the affairs of both the Polo Grounds and American League Park would have drawn at least twelve per cent more business this past Summer were it not for the drain on the pockets of the sports by the race track bookmakers. So tremendously popular has racing become that its giant money mill is at last having an effect on Metropolitan life generally.

LYNN, 4; HOLYOKE, 2.

LYNN, Sept. 21.—Moore was very effective against Holyoke and Lynn found no trouble in defeating the Connecticut Leaguers, 4 to 2.

NAPS LAUGH AT SHAKEUP STORIES

The great Lajoie, manager of the Cleveland club, laughed when he read the story telegraphed from Cleveland to the Boston morning papers telling of an alleged big shake-up.

Bradley, the third baseman; Stovall, the first sacker; Bay, the fleet outfielder; Rhoades and Bernhardt, the pitchers, were to go and their places were to be taken by some phenomenal players the club had under cover.

Manager Lajoie ridiculed the statements while Secretary Bernard scowled darkly and said the whole thing was the invention of a Cleveland newspaper man and had no foundation whatever in fact.

Calls It Only "Dope."

"There is always some newspaper reporter in every league city that knows more about what is going to happen than the officials of the club," said Mr. Bernard, "and the man who telegraphed this report from Cleveland is simply smoking dope. Neither President Somers or Vice-President Kilfoyle gave out any such statement as those printed in the Boston newspapers this morning and all the other officials of the club are right here in Boston and we certainly do not stand for that kind of rot."

All the Cleveland players got much amusement out of the report.

The news that the Cleveland Club had been soaked $300 by President Ban Johnson for delaying a recent game in Detroit so that it would not go five innings, the Naps being three runs to the bad in the first inning of a double-header, reached Boston to-day. Manager Lajoie and Secretary Bernard had a few things to say of Secretary Navin of the Detroits, whose complaint to Ban Johnson led to the fine. Their remarks would look well in print, but they were of such a nature that they cannot be chronicled.

Blame the Tigers.

"Why, that Detroit club had to be draged out to start that second game," said Mr. Bernard. "They delayed it as long as they could. We had beaten them the first game and they didn't want to take a chance on the second. But finally they started and got in three runs in the first inning, and I confess we played horse, hoping the game would not go five innings.

"That Detroit club has played horse with us many times, but I never heard of Ban Johnson fining them for it. In one game at Cleveland when we were ahead they tried to delay the game so much that when finally the rain did start Umpire Evans made them play six innings through the greatest downpour I ever saw. Everybody was soaked to the skin and 'Dutch' Schaefer went out on the field with a mackintosh on and an umbrella up. Those fellows are the limit."

DONAHUE WON OVER SCROGGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Young Donahue of Boston and Harry Scroggs of Baltimore fought ten rounds at the Paddock A. C., and the former led in every round except the fifth and sixth which were even.

Young Donahue has just been matched to meet Dave Deshler of Cambridge, Mass., at the new Cooper Social and Athletic Club of Boston.

ATTELL IS ON GANS' TRAIL

BY TAD.

Abe Attell is the latest aspirant for the lightweight crown. The little Hebrew boxer, who has kept clipping the featherweight buds for the past four years, feels that as Gans has beaten every one in his class, he would like to go in and get a trimming himself.

Abe writes as follows from Indianapolis:

"Indianapolis, Sept. 19, 1907.

"Dear Tad—I want to box Joe Gans for the lightweight championship, but just to show the people that I am sincere I want to fight Nelson first, and then, if I am a winner, want Gans to be my next opponent. I will train honestly for the colored fellow, and take it from me I will win surely.

"I was never trained when I fought in Philadelphia, as I knew none of them could bother me in six rounds at all. I think I am too clever for Joe, and would surely outpoint him, and maybe put him away. He is bound to be beaten within the next few years, and I'd like a chance before it is too late.

I have knocked out every one in my class out here when in shape, and am as right as could be right now.

"Hoping that the writers will give me a square talk on such a match, I am, sincerely,

ABE ATTELL."

Attell Fastest Boy in His Class.

Attell, although only a 122-pound man, is the fastest boy who ever held the title in that division. He outclasses his field as Gans does the lightweights, and more than once has met 133-pounders and made them look like suckers. Battling Nelson says Attell is the cleverest boy he has ever met, and the Dane should know, as Abe had him so groggy in the second round of their Philadelphia fight that the Dane couldn't hold his hands up. He evened things up later on Abe and made it a draw.

Abe fought Eddie Hanlon a draw in Frisco, but for over a week after the fight Eddie couldn't open his eyes. Abe also beat Tommy Murphy a mile at Philadelphia in a six-round go. He hit the Harlem lad twenty-two times on the nose in the sixth round without a return. He has made Aurelia Herrera look like a tramp on more than one occasion, and then took on that tough young gent Young Erne, in St. Louis, and beat him to a decision.

Yes, Gans must lose sometime, but whom he is to lose to is a mystery. He beats the tough ones as easily as the clever ones, and now we're up a tree for an opponent. Abe might be the boy—no one knows. He is younger and faster than any one Gans ever met, and his speed might carry him along a winner.

After Gans finishes Burns at Los Angeles we may see the pair hook up at Philadelphia. A go between these two would be something like a comet racing a streak of lightning.

HENRY F. MILLER Pianos

395 Boylston Street

After a business career of nearly fifty years the name "HENRY F. MILLER" is accepted as a guarantee of integrity and reliability in every transaction—covering the making, selling, renting, repairing or care of pianos. At our warerooms, 395 Boylston street (the largest in New England) we show a complete stock of "Henry F. Miller" Grand, Upright and Player-Pianos—pianos that stand unequalled in beauty of tone, action, responsiveness and lasting durability. The

PRE-EMINENCE OF HENRY F. MILLER PIANOS

has been attained by merit alone—and by merit alone can it be challenged.

We offer our most desirable styles of

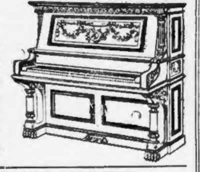

HENRY F. MILLER GRANDS at	$585 to $765
HENRY F. MILLER UPRIGHTS at	350 to 425
HENRY F. MILLER PLAYER-PIANOS at	765

In addition to the above we offer a superior line of medium grade pianos of other makes at popular prices—$200 to $300.

In this connection we respectfully suggest that the purchase of medium grade or lower priced pianos (which are often of questionable value) can safely be made only through such houses as have firmly established their reputation for honorable dealings at all times. We take old instruments in exchange and sell on very easy instalment terms.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, SEPTEMBER 21, 1907

Don't Envy the Gambler's Life, Young Men

It Is a Hard, Cold, Brutal Road the Gambler Travels. It Ends Badly

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

A man from California, big and wise, walked into the office and said this:

"Write an editorial telling the young men they are mistaken if they think the gambling life an easy life. Many of them get into betting, racing, card playing or professional gambling, because they think it a life of much money and of little work. There never was a bigger mistake. Tell them that success in any honest line is easier to get, and means more. Give them a sermon."

We do not believe that many young men DELIBERATELY take up the gambler's career. They drift into it through weakness, temptation or accident.

If any young man DOES imagine that in the gambler's life he can find more money, less work and more happiness, than in honest living and honest working, he is badly and dangerously mistaken.

A most miserable creature is the gambler. He knows himself, and therefore he hates himself.

No man can gamble and be honest even with his friends, even with his family. The idea of the gambler is to get from another man what he has not earned from that man, giving nothing in exchange.

And when a man spends his time trying to get away the money of others with no return, he soon drifts into throwing aside ALL honesty, even the gambler's brand.

The unsuccessful gambler is one of the worst of wrecks. He runs his little course of dissipation, dishonesty, cheating and swindling. He is overmatched and eliminated by the bigger, keener, self-controlled gambler, who eats him up as the big spider eats the little spider.

Hanging around saloons, begging for a little money with which to bet, doing the dirty work of the bigger gamblers—that is the fate of the little gambling castoff. He is not worth talking about.

The gambler's life is simply the life of a criminal. And, like every other successful criminal, the successful gambler has got to work very hard.

What the burglar gets, what the pickpocket gets, what the gambler gets, is money painfully accumulated.

The successful burglar or pickpocket or gambler must work hard and be forever on the alert.

He must be remorselessly cruel in taking money from those that cannot stand the loss. He must be indifferent to all sense of decency, for he knows that he is robbing women and children.

The criminal in ANY line, gambler or other, cannot be a self-indulgent man if he is to be successful. The young man who imagines that the gambler's life is a gay and easy one is badly mistaken. If he tries it, he will live to envy ANY honest man who has a right to look other men in the face.

Has Mellen Abandoned the Merger?

If So, He Hasn't Taken the Public Into His Confidence Yet

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

When a modern railroad president professes to respect public opinion in any matter in which he or his corporation comes to be interested, the public ought to be more than usually vigilant.

President Mellen of the New Haven road must think very little of the intelligence of the citizens of Massachusetts if he, or the head of his publicity department, believes that the citizens of Massachusetts can be lulled into a sense of security by the inspired newspaper articles which pretend that President Mellen has in any recent communication announced his abandonment of the attempt to seize the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Mr. Mellen must think the citizens of Massachusetts very charitable if he believes that they will consider any such announcement as expressing his honest purposes, even if the announcement were EXPLICITLY MADE.

The people of Massachusetts have learned something about Mr. Charles S. Mellen since he testified before the legislative committee last June. The people of Massachusetts now know that Mr. Charles S. Mellen is not a gentleman who keeps his agreements, EVEN WHEN DELIBERATELY MADE TO THE STATE AUTHORITIES.

Mr. Mellen distinctly promised the Legislature that the New Haven Railroad would not buy any more trolley lines, but in spite of that promise Mr. Mellen went right ahead and BOUGHT TROLLEY LINES.

The citizens of Massachusetts now know that Mr. Mellen belongs to that reprehensible type of citizens afflicting this country who believe that the word of honor passed to the public in general, or to the public through the government, is not binding if there is any money to be made by repudiating it.

No intelligent citizen would believe Mr. Mellen if he distinctly declared an express abandonment of the merger scheme. But even THIS he does not do. There is nothing in the letters published as the basis of these stories which justifies the conclusion that Mr. Mellen has abandoned his plans.

Mr. Mellen stands pat. He is satisfied to let well enough alone. The present situation is comfortable to Mr. Mellen. He doesn't NEED to advance his position any, PROVIDING HE CAN KEEP THAT WHICH HE NOW HOLDS.

Why should he not be satisfied? One of the iniquities of the Cole bill passed during the last session to stay the merger—an iniquity which was clearly and distinctly pointed out by the AMERICAN at the time—is the provision that the New Haven may not, prior to the first of July, do certain things with respect to the stock and the control of the Boston & Maine.

Mr. Mellen believes that by the language of this provision the mere operation of time will give him all he wants, and permit him to do with the stock which he now holds, AND WHICH HE HAS TESTIFIED IS A PRACTICAL CONTROL OF THE BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD, anything which he wishes towards the consummation of the merger. A majority of the Board of Directors of the Boston & Maine are his henchmen.

Another section of the Cole bill provides that a majority of the stock of the Boston & Maine must be represented at a stockholders' meeting, or no election of officers shall take place.

With 110,000 to 120,000 shares of the stock of the Boston & Maine now in the control of the New Haven road, it will be easy for Mr. Mellen to prevent a new election of directors of the Boston & Maine, and still continue in control of the management of that road.

Why, therefore, should Mr. Mellen worry if the public will only let him alone and permit him to stand pat?

In the meantime, dreadful accidents are occurring on the Boston & Maine, and the management of the Boston & Albany is daily growing worse. Human life and the business interests in this community are being daily sacrificed through the blunders and incompetency of those connected with these railroads.

If it were a conspiracy among those controlling these railroads to discourage the stockholders into selling their stocks—the stocks of one of the roads—to the New Haven, and to harry the public into a reluctant consent to the transfer of both roads to the New Haven, the scheme could not be better planned or more ruthlessly executed.

This railroad question cannot be put to rest until the New Haven Railroad has been compelled by the next Legislature to disgorge its holdings of Boston & Maine stock, and until the New York Central has been compelled to surrender its lease of the Boston & Albany Railroad.

THEN, perhaps, and not till then, New York's stock gamblers will cease trifling with the business interests of New England.

Little Editorials from the People

EDGERLY STATES HIS POSITION IN PLAIN WORDS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

President Charles S. Mellen now promises to leave it all to the great American people.

How can we rely on his promises at any time?

I heard him promise before the Railroad Committee last June that he "would not budge an inch," and the lips of the politician smacked in anticipation of the frying of the "fat."

But now he has decided not only to "budge," but to lie down! Is not that breaking his promise and refusing to give the people the joy of shoving him aside? But he is keeping the pawn ticket—he refuses to return the "goods." How does that comport with his promise to quit, even pro tem?

Yet after all he knows what ... about, for did he not tell a Senator, by implication, that no man can be Attorney-General in this State who wants to enforce the law? Therefore, since he has the "goods" and the Attorney-General, he can, forsooth, "wait." How kind!

"Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes" ("I fear the Greeks even when they bring gifts"). The wooden horse, filled with Mellen's minions, is within the walls at this moment, so do not fall asleep, my fellow citizens, until well into November.

And don't fail to send me to the State House, for I want to give Mr. Mellen a chance to "know" me as well as he said he knew the chairman of the Railroad Committee. The acquaintance will prove disappointing to him, but instructive, for it will be a sure way for him to tell when the people are ready for him to finish the "deal," especially if he puts me on the Railroad Committee.

ANSON B. EDGERLY,
Independence League Candidate, Fifth Suffolk Senatorial District.

THE DIARY OF ANANIAS!

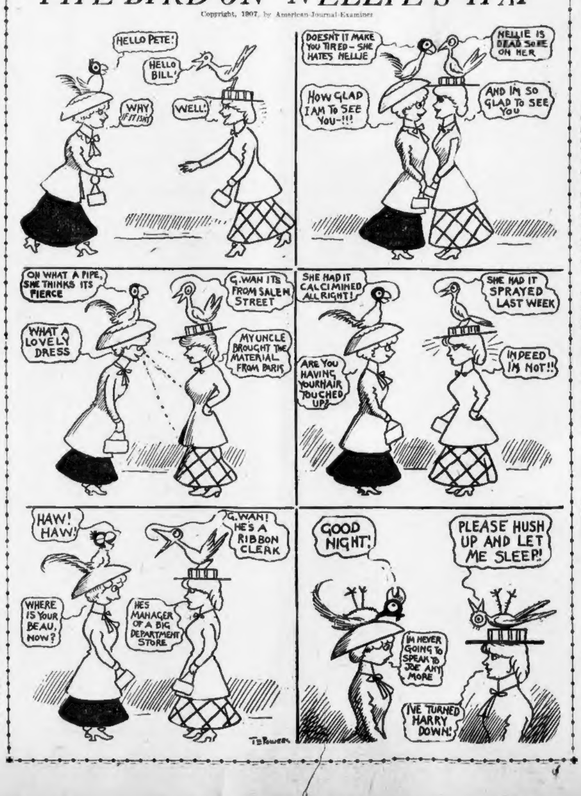

"Mr. Common People and several of his friends who have been recruiting their strength at Muldoon's have become so muscular that on leaving that institution this morning they immediately proceeded to thrash a number of the Trusts and Captains of Industry from whose oppression they have long suffered. It was a most thrilling exhibition of physical prowess!"

All in One Day's News

By C. B. Quincy

LONDON.—As soon as the Peace Conference is over England will begin work on a 100,000-ton battleship, which will be armed with 100 1,000-inch guns. There will be a powder factory and shipbuilding plant aboard, so that 20,000-ton Dreadnoughts can be built and launched from time to time. A military railroad and coast defence system with wireless stations will keep the Captain informed of any danger threatening his shores. The new ship will be launched by pushing the British Isles away from it.

HAMMERFEST.—To this aptly named city an Arctic explorer has just returned. He was the only Arctic explorer to be lost temporarily this year. It happened because the explorer was rash enough to wander several miles north of his Summer camp.

SQUEEBUNK.—Hiram Hifiite of this city became despondent over the high price of beef, and was taking to drink, but was prevented by the high price of whiskey. The high price of chocolates has caused Josh Dillings to break off his engagement to Susie Sunbonnet, and Josh had some thought of suicide, but the high price of rope deterred him. Things are thus about an even break here.

NEW YORK.—John D. Rockefeller has gone back to work. Ida Tarbell has bought another fountain pen.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The proposal to put bells in the belfry of every cop has been received with joy. According to the inventor, headquarters will send out a wireless alarm, the bells in the patrolmen's helmets will ring and the men will take it on the run for the head office. To prevent mistakes, each patrolman on entering will ask the chief: "Did you ring, sir?" Burglars hearing the bells ring are requested not to go to work until the patrolman gets back to his beat, as otherwise the burglars would be taking a mean advantage of the force.

OYSTER BAY.—It is reported that "the President is firm against becoming a candidate for another term, and nothing can alter his determination not to run, unless it is some movement on the part of his enemies." They would be his enemies all right.

WASHINGTON.—A man has been taken into custody for asking the Government to help him collect $10,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller. He was arrested as a piker, the Government being in a puzzle at present as to how it can collect $29,000,000 from the same person.

CHICAGO.—The University of Chicago will have a vegetarian football team this year. Their yell is expected to be:

We eats,
We eats,
Cabbage and beets,
Raw, raw, raw.

Members of the team will sleep on wire mattresses, lest they should mistake the ordinary mattress for their breakfast and eat enough of it to slow them down in practice.

Killing Off Sheep; How About Men?

By Winifred Black

DAVID STARR JORDAN of California, the man who knows all about bugs and fish and what's the matter with our civilization, says that it would be a good thing for the human race if there should be a great drought which would wipe out all but the strong and well, who would be able to resist the effects of great hardships and live through it.

"Every time we have a hard Winter," said Dr. Jordan, "the sheep-men lose a great many sheep, but they get rich on such a loss, for the sheep which live are the finest and fittest specimens of their kind, and from them springs a stock of magnificent animals which are worth twice the weaklings that died in the storm."

Very nice, indeed, Dr. Jordan, very comforting for the sheep-man and all very well so far as sheep are concerned, but men—no, no, your theory of the survival of the fittest will not apply to man.

What Would Happen?

WHAT do you call the fittest, Dr. Jordan—the man with the muscle or the man with the brain?

If that great drought should come to-day, what do you suppose would happen to Mr. Edison, the inventor, or to Rudyard Kipling, the poet, or perhaps even to you, Dr. Jordan?

The man who cuts your lawn and waters your horses would probably live.

Do you think that he will make a better ancestor to the race than you?

This survival of the fittest idea is all very fine, when you look at things from a purely physical point of view; but if that theory had been carried out from the beginning of time, we should have had no Julius Caesar, no great Napoleon, no Daniel Webster and the Mohammedan religion would never have been founded.

For Mohammed, like Caesar and Napoleon and Webster, was afflicted with a terrible and an incurable disease.

A Sad Nation

DO you think, Dr. Jordan, that it would have been a good thing for the human race if Robert Louis Stevenson had been wiped out of existence by a drought?

He had to fight for his breath for years, and nothing but the most tender and unremitting care kept him alive at all.

Ought he to have died with the sick sheep?

To my mind one year of the life of such a man as he was worth seventy years in the existence of a mere flesh and blood animal.

And then, if we were all strong and well and able to take care of ourselves, what would become of the divine qualities of pity, sympathy and charity which, more than any other attributes, distinguish men from beasts?

I'd hate to belong to a nation in which there were no sick or suffering.

It would be a nation of selfish animals.

No, no, Dr. Jordan. The sheep theory is all very well for sheep; when it comes to men, it doesn't work.

> No man ever became extremely wicked all at once.
> JUVENAL.

Help Wanted!

By Wex Jones

Reports show that work is waiting for 256,400 persons.—Washington Dispatch.

COME, all you men who want to work, there's jobs and jobs galore;
The country's full of workers, but it needs a million more.
There's a hearty welcome waiting from the Golden Gate to Maine
For those prepared to work their way with two good hands or brain.
It matters not your creed or race, your station or your birth,
So long as you can fill the job—the only test of worth.

THERE'S work for men in thousands, jobs all along the line,
In field and farm and factory, in lumber woods and mine.
The shirkers aren't wanted, nor any of the dross
Need the signal of the whistle or the urging of the boss;
But the ever-ready workers, let 'em come in bigger mobs—
There's work and welcome waiting for the men can fill their jobs.
